Fewer Burglaries Key 29 Percent Reduction In '88 Borough Crime

While national crime figures for 1988 were rising three percent, the Borough experienced a drop of 29 percent in major crimes and a dramatic 47 percent reduction in burglaries, according to figures in his year-end report released last week by Chief Michael Carnevale.

Chief Carnevale described the two figures as "the most significant drop I've experienced in my 33-year career."

Added Chief Carnevale; "I am delighted with the reduction in the crime rate. I think anytime a community experiences a decrease of 29 percent in crime, it should feel pleased." Satisfying as the decrease was, he urged the Sun Shines on Princeton For 'Communiversity' Day

Last year's rained-out Communiversity receded even further into memory as the sun shone on the event this Saturday, when between five and six thousand people converged on the heart of Princeton to share in good food and good spirits.

The weather was cool — sweaters and jackets were the rule — but the atmosphere resembled a picnic in June. Groups of children, with their parents, sat on the grass on Cannon Green to hear a storyteller, and other small groups found sun-warmed spots on which to rest. One could sit, soak in the spring sunshine, and listen to the perform-

Two New Schools, Many Road Improvements Highlight First Draft of Town's Master Plan

A new elementary school on the Van Dyke-Wight tract, a new middle school with a new multi-purpose community center on the Winant property east of The Great Road, and a long list of road improvements designed to make traffic flow better while keeping Princeton's roads two lanes are among the highlights of the draft master plan proposed by a subcommittee of the Regional Planning Boad.

The public will get a chance to hear the Planning Board discuss these and other proposals at a public meeting this Thursday at 7:30 in the Valley Road building meeting room. This will be a workshop session primarily for the benefit of Planning Board members who have not been a part of the master plan subcommittee. A second "drafting" session is scheduled for Wednesday, May 10, if necessary. Review and discussion will be limited to the members of the Planning Board at these two meetings.

Two more "informal" meetings are scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday, May 16 and 18, at which time there may be an opportunity for public input. Following these meetings a three-week period is scheduled to allow revisions to the plan before formal public hearings. These hearings are scheduled for Monday, June 5, Thursday, June 15, and Wednesday, June 21. The Planning Board hopes to adopt the Princeton Community Master Plan on Thursday, June 29, but has set aside Tuesday, July 11, for an extra meeting if additional time before voting seems to be necessary.

In seeking to keep Princeton the unique community its residents believe it to be, the 1989 plan tilts markedly in the direction of conservation and preservation, with only passing mention of maintaining or enhancing economic viability. In the introduction, the authors say, "It is the striking juxtaposition of the small-town characteristics and truly cosmopolitan opportunities that is the esence of the character of the Princeton community."

They continue: "We who are charged with planning once again for the future of the Princeton community affirm two imperatives as our guideposts in the development of this Master Plan: the nourishment of the diversity, and at the same time, the interdependence of its townspeople and the preservation of Princeton's special physical character and flavor as a University town."

Throughout the plan the words "balance" (as applied to a community of mixed uses and a socio-economically heterogeneous population) and "scale" (as in retaining the human scale of buildings and the relationship of devel-

School Board Responds to Concerns Of Parents about Slapping Incident

Some two dozen people came to the Princeton Regional School Board meeting last Tuesday night to hear the Board's response to an incident on March 20 in which a teacher at Community Park slapped a child.

The decision was read by Superintendent of Schools Carol Choye, who began by stating that Princeton Regional forbids any form of corporal punishment. She said she had listened to comments, consulted with the Board's attorney, met with the teacher, and reviewed all records, "including the teacher's 19 years of service, which were spotless."

"We have issued a formal written reprimand and placed it in the teacher's record," said Dr. Choye, adding that Board regulations forbid any public discussion of personnel or confidential matters affecting employees' work, and that all personnel matters must be held in strictest confidence by the Board.

Dr. Choye then read a statement on the issue of serving black children in the schools.

She recalled that the Board and Administration had held several meetings with the black community prior to the opening of Littlebrook School.

School Board

These centered on how well the schools were meeting the needs of black children.

"After the Littlebrook decision, a group of us continued to meet," she said. "Since then, composer Malcolm Dodds has spent time at the high school and Princeton Regional teacher Lamont Fletcher has been working with an after-school nutrition program."

"In January we began meeting with teachers of basic skills to see how much all childrens' needs were being met in remedial programs," she said. "The Board will review a study of out-of-district placements in May."

Dr. Choye discussed her formation of a new committee — "an action group that will plan an active agenda to meet the needs of black children" — which held its first meeting on April 6. It includes members of the administration, board, community, and a representative of Princeton University. Suggestions raised so far by committee members include an expansion of the Blairstown summer program and basketball clinics.

'Outraged.' "I'm so outraged I can't catch my breath," said Ohery Hendricks, 81 Harriet Drive, the first to speak after the meeting was opened for public comment. "There was a felony, an assault. I'm insulted. The tone feels like a plantation mentality." He also asked why the issue of remedial programs was discussed as part of a program for black students.

Samira Williams spoke next, saying she does not want her son involved in a sports program. "I'm asking you to help our children in academics." She said she was upset about another study being done. "There were three done before, but I don't see results. As we do all this, other kids are slipping through the cracks."

Her voice taut, she added, "I don't want any more Blairstown trips. If I want him to have camping trips, I can pay for it." Her words were echoed by Mr. Hendricks, who said, "Basketball, remedial, I've never heard anything so insulting in my life."

Michael Washington, 50 Dogwood Hill, said he was asking for the basics — "basics the school system should provide, such as homework."

He told the meeting that he understands no supervisor will file a harsh evaluation of a teacher because the teacher would then file a grievance. "The parent doesn't want to press charges," he said. "This has happened in the past. We want it stopped. I have heard a story of a teacher who put children into boxes at Community Park. I am working with other people to investigate what is happening and will bring it to the Board. The Board doesn't know what is happening."

Mr. Washington accused the schools of not bringing in the family before sending a child into remedial classes and of not spending any money in the elementary schools for after-school programs.

Inadequate Palliatives. "Like many other people in the audience, I am not happy with the decision made," said Philip White, 160 Laurel Circle. "I understand, but I am not happy."

He added, "We need to publicize the policy on corporal punishment among teachers. The problem requires deep study and action. I don't think that the palliatives proposed go anywhere toward solving these problems."

"Our children are stigmatized, not treated like other children," said Mr. Hendricks. He said he was told not to put his children into Princeton public schools when he moved to town. "They are treated differently. My 12-year-old is not treated like other children. I couldn't believe the condescending manner I was spoken to until I proved I fulfilled standards."

Michael Jennings, one of several white parents at the meeting, said he was deeply disturbed by the willingness of the Superintendent and School Board to polarize the community. "I didn't hear a single word about the child, a child who needs help."

"It seems legalistic to say there is a lot we can't discuss," said School Board President Corinne Kyle, "but we try to abide by the law. We have taken a lot of actions we cannot discuss. The child has the right of privacy and the teacher has the right of privacy. There has not been a void. We have done a lot of things we cannot talk about."

After more than an hour of discussion, a break in the meeting was called. Several Board members left their places around the table to speak directly with the parents, most of whom remained to talk with each other and with Board members.

Township Introduces Bond Ordinance To Extend Sewer on Cherry Hill Road

At its regular meeting last Monday, Township Committee introduced a bond ordinance in the amount of $300,000 to pay for an extension of the public sewer line up Cherry Hill Road. The public hearing on the ordinance is set for Monday, May 8, when Committee next meets.

The 14 homeowners who will be served by the extension will be assessed on a pro rata basis for the cost and will also be required to make a contribution to the sewer rehabilitation trust fund. The 14 lots are currently served by septic systems, some of which are said by the Board of Health to be failing. The homeowners will be given up to 10 years to pay their assessed cost and will not be penalized if they elect to pay sooner.

At the previous Committee meeting at which this extension was discussed, Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser said that because of the sewer ban in effect on the Mountain Brook trunk line, a dry line will be installed and the homeowners will not be able to connect to the new line until sometime early next year, after the replacement of a large portion of the Mountain Brook trunkline is completed and approved by the State Department of Environmental Protection.

However, the Township is planning to undertake road improvements to Cherry Hill Road during this construction season and wants to install the new sewer extension before the road work is done. Committee also introduced a related ordinance which requires that everyone who connects to the public sewer system has to make a contribution to the sewer rehabilitation trust — whether or not the hook-up is necessitated by a failing septic system.

TOPICS Of the Town

In Fairness to All. Currently, the contribution is waived for those with failing septics, and the Sewer Operating Committee decided that in fairness, those with healthy septics who are required to hook into the public system should not be penalized. The public hearing on this ordinance will also be held on May 8.

In other business, Committee authorized the expenditure of $9,000 to Garmen Associates, the Township's traffic consultants, for preliminary design work toward the signalization of the Mt. Lucas/Ewing Street intersection. Committeewoman Janet Mitchell recommended that in the future other traffic consultants be asked to bid on projects such as this.

Committee also heard a report from Mr. Kiser regarding the replacement of portions of the TRANSCO gas pipe line through the Township. Mr. Kiser said that the company is planning to replace sections of a 30-inch line that was installed 40 years ago. The purpose is to allow a greater volume of gas through the line and at a greater pressure.

The new line will be thicker and made of higher-strength steel, Mr. Kiser reported. The project begins west of Cherry Valley Road and continues past Herrontown Woods. Pretty Brook Road, Cherry Hill Road, Route 206, Mt. Lucas and Herrontown Road will all be affected at various times. Mr. Kiser has asked the company to do the work in the vicinity of Herrontown Road first so that the road repaving currently under way will not be affected.

Although the TRANSCO easement is 75 to 85 feet wide, the gas pipe line lies within 10

ance of one musical group after another.

Foods of all kinds were offered for sale everywhere. They smelled — and looked — delicious. Tables set up through the area trumpeted causes from A to Z (or at least to Y) — from Accion Puertorriquena y Amigos to the YWCA Artisans Guild. In between were dozens of others, including the League of Women Voters of the Princeton Area, McCarter Theatre, and Princeton Canadians.

Face painting, mask making, sneaker painting, and T-shirt decorating were just some of the activities that drew the younger set — a prominent part of every Communiversity scene.

Sympathy for Snoopy. Child after child walked into the ambulance display provided by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, where a stuffed Snoopy, dressed in a hospital gown, rested on a stretcher. "Snoopy is sick," was said by several, in a voice filled with concern.

Princeton University's Undergraduate Student Government had hoped to break a world record for the largest Twister session on record. Participation, however, fell short of expectations, and only about 55 players joined in. The event did raise $1,200 — from corporate sponsorship and other donations — for the March of Dimes.

The barrier that Nassau Street creates between the University and the town no longer existed on Saturday, when the street was closed to traffic and people happily strolled from Nassau Street into the campus, and back again. Similarly, the entire day was a joint project of Princeton citizens, working through the sponsoring Arts Council, and students at the University.

Co-chairmen of the event were Ellen Levine, of the Arts Council Board, and Todd DeJesus, Emily Grand, Nancy Simon, and Emily Daniell, students at the University.

The steering committee consisted of Anne Reeves, Mitch Forest, Petie Duncan, Cathy Kapoor, Anna Rosa Kohn, Hedy Shepard, Karen Woodbridge, Muriel Whitcomb, Jean Parsons, Linda Ecker, Marvin Reed and Lt. Peter Hanley.

feet of the edge of the easement. Therefore the company is asking abutting property owners for a temporary working easement on their property for easier access for its construction equipment. Mr. Kiser said the company is paying property owners for this temporary easement.

The company also plans to insert a device that measures corrosion and wall thickness in the sections of pipe it is not planning to replace so that it can evaluate whether other sections should be replaced. The project is expected to be completed by October or November, said Mayor Phyllis Marchand, who attended the meeting with Mr. Kiser and the TRANSCO officials.

Water Service. In work session, attorney Bill Potter summarized for committee his activities on behalf of the two municipalities in regard to assuring a "safe and adequate" water service from Elizabethtown Water Company. An omnibus petition has been filed with the Public Utilities Commission and State Department of Environmental Protection asking each agency to order the water company to desist from selling water to large customers outside the franchise area until such service is assured.

In response, the Water Company has moved for the dismissal of the petition on the grounds that the issues raised were resolved in the 1988 rate case. Mr. Potter has also filed a motion to be an intervenor in the 1989 rate application in which Elizabethtown is seeking a 17.8 percent rate hike. Princeton University has also filed to be an intervenor, Mr. Potter told Committee.

Also in work session, Mark Freda asked Committee to support the Fire Department's request that the new firehouse be exempt from formal review by the Planning Board. Mr. Freda expressed concern that a formal review could be a lengthy process, delaying start of construction by as much as a year and a half. He said he hoped informal review by all the applicable staff and committees would allow a building permit to be issued in time for the concrete footings to be poured this fall, with construction continuing through the winter months and completion by spring.

But Committee advised him that there was great benefit for all parties in the review process and suggested he file a concept plan now. Mayor Marchand assured him Committee members on the Planning Board would do all they could to see to it the firehouse is put on an early agenda.

Race Relations Program Planned at Middle School

A human relations program, featuring professional theatrical performances and post-performance discussions, has been scheduled for Tuesday, May 23, at the John Witherspoon Middle School.

The greater Princeton area chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews is working with the Princeton Regional School Board and the Joint Commission on Civil Rights to organize the program called "Opening Doors: Work Against Racism." Professional actors from a Boston ensemble will perform for 8th- and 9th-graders during the school day and for members of the general public in the evening.

According to Sheila Marrero, youth programs director of the greater Princeton area NCCJ, the purpose of the program is to "spark peoples' interest, involve their emotions and encourage them to investigate their own cultural and racial prejudices." The sponsoring groups believe that one way to do this is through theater, and that one of the most important groups to reach is early adolescents and their families.

Those interested in assisting with publicity, fundraising or providing overnight accommodations for the performers are urged to call Ms. Marrero at 921-2981.

75 Percent Auto Insurance Hike?

If left unchecked, in the absence of reforms, New Jersey auto insurance rates will rise by about 75 percent within the next five years, according to a report prepared by David Grubb, a special deputy commissioner with the State Department of Insurance.

The report, however, suggests several ways to prevent this. It states that New Jersey drivers can be saved an average of $165 a year by cutting the State's unlimited health coverage law. It recommends that full catastrophic health coverage be limited to medical bills over $10,000. The first $10,000 in medical payments would be paid by an individual's health insurance program.

The plan would impose an $80 fee per car to create a fund which would pay all medical claims in excess of $10,000. The fund would also eliminate the $152-per-car surcharge now paid by each motorist to support the Joint Underwriting Association

Under the proposed plan, insurance premium rates for good drivers, on the average, would drop from the present $890 to $725. Premiums for high-risk drivers would decrease from $1,392 to $1,341, said Insurance Commissioner Kenneth Merin.

If the plan is adopted by the Legislature, insurance premium rates for health insurers would rise between three and six percent, according to the report.

Plastic Container Vote Delayed

An apparent lack of support resulted in postponement of a vote in the State Senate on a bill that would add a three-cent tax on plastic food containers. Grocery and food lobbyists have waged a strong offensive against the bill, which is aimed at encouraging use of biodegradable packaging alternatives. The measure would also raise an estimated $80 million in the first year, which would be used to offset local property taxes.

The action was termed a delay by Richard McGrath, Senate spokesman, but Republican leaders saw a bleak future for the plastics tax bill and the larger $350 million property tax relief package of which it is a part.

Bills to Help Elderly

Legislation to grant the elderly and disabled a higher property tax deduction and other assistance in paying taxes on their homes has been approved by a the State Assembly Senior Citizens Committee.

One bill would raise the annual deduction for senior citizens and the disabled from $250 to $300. A second would raise the maximum income eligibility ceiling from $10,000 to $15,000.

Also approved were measures to allnw low-income elderly and disabled people tn defer property tax payments on the strength of equity in their homes and to allow senior citizens to draw on this equity with reverse mortgages.

$5,000 Trophy Recovered; Stolen from Springdale

A 17-inch high, sterling silver Tiffany golf trophy, valued at $5,000, was scheduled to be returned Thursday to the Springdale Golf Club, where it was last seen on March 26.

It was recovered last Wednesday by Hamilton Township Detective Robert Hoch in a second-hand jewelry store in Hamilton. Borough police report the trophy, the Princeton Graduates - U.S. Undergraduates Team annual golf trophy, had been on display in the club's bar area before it was stolen.

Det. Hoch said that he routinely goes around checking all places that are licensed to buy gold and silver. Such places are required by law, he said, to hold any gnld or silver items for three days before they can sell them.

"I spotted it on a shelf right away. It stuck out like an elephant," recalled Det. Hoch. "It had Princeton Graduates vs. Undergraduates 1909 engraved nn it and when I saw 'Tiffany' underneath you knew you had something."

Det. Hoch started calling around. When he contacted the Springdale Club, the connection was made.

While two occupants of an Olden Street apartment were asleep Thursday morning, someone entered an unlocked front door between 3 and 9:05, and stole a $300 VCR and a $50 cordless telephone. Also taken was n backpack valued at $225 which was later recovered, intact, in the back yard. The entry was discovered when the victims awoke.

A University student reported the theft of her $500 Gucci watch that was stolen last week from her gym bag which she had left on a first-floor coat rack in Wilcox Hall. The bag was left behind.

A small Kenmore refrigerator valued at $135 was stolen last week from Room 013 in the 185 Nassau Street Building, the old Nassau Street School. There was no forced entry. Police identified the owner as a Princeton University employee.

While a Princeton resident was in the Princeton Arts Council Building at 102 Witherspoon Street last week, she noticed a man enter the front door and go to the basement area. She remembered she had left her purse there as the suspect came up the steps and exited through a rear door. He was carrying a rolled up sweater as if he were trying to conceal something, she later told police.

That something turned out to be her purse. Inside were two checks for $28 each made out to the victim but no cash. The victim described the suspect as a black male, about 45, 5-10, heavy build, clean shaven, wearing brown trousers and a tan shirt.

In one of two bicycle thefts last week, a BMX dirt bike, valued at $140, was stolen from the Pyne Hall courtyard on campus. The bike was locked, police said.

A Library Place resident parked his 15-year-old, 3-speed bicycle on Mercer Street near Nassau last Wednesday. Left unlocked, the $50 bike was taken between 9 and noon.

Car Passenger Charged With Crack Possession

A passenger in a car stopped early Friday morning on Nassau Street near Chambers for operating without its headlights on was charged by police with possession of crack.

The passenger, Linda Ross, 33, of Clay Street, was later released, pending a May 1 appearance in Borough court. No charges were made against the driver.

According to Chief Michael Carnevale, after Ptl. Ronald Wohlschlegel and Officer Carol Raymond had stopped the car, Ross had attempted to conceal something in her coat sleeve. Asked what the object was, she told the officers it was a lighter.

Asked then to step outside the car, Ross stuck her hand in her coat but a search revealed the lighter was a vial of crack. When Ross admitted to police that she had just made a buy on the street, she was arrested.

Chief Carnevale described the amount of crack as small. Police were not able to ascertain where the buy was made.

Marijuana Charge. While officer Raymond was operating a radar gun on Mercer Street around 2 Saturday morning, she stopped a pickup truck for speeding 43 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone.

As she and her backup, Ptl. Wohlschlegel, were talking to the driver and passenger, Ptl. Wohlschlegel detected an odor of marijuana. Both occupants were asked to step outside. The investigation by the officers revealed that the passenger, Andre Jeffries, 19, of Redding Circle, was clutching a package of cigarettes that contained a partially-burned reefer. Concealed in the package was a small amount of marijuana in a clear, plastic bag.

Jeffries was arrested, charged and released, pending a court appearance May 8. The driver was issued a summons for speeding.

Assault in Hoagie Line Mirrors Today's Stress

"It typifies the pressure cooker and stress so many people are under today," commented Chief Michael Carnevale, as he described a simple assault incident that occurred just after midnight Saturday morning in a Nassau Street hoagie shop.

Customers were lined up for hoagies, Chief Carnevale said, when someone placed an order before someone else in line. The 'victim' became upset and struck the other person in the mouth with his fist, causing a slight cut that did not require medical attention.

The person who had been struck left the restaurant and called police who searched the area but were unable to locate the assailant. He is described as a white male in his late 30s, 5-7, 240 pounds, with a red beard and hair, wearing cream-colored trousers, white shirt and white sneakers.

"It's indicative of what is happening in our society today," summed up Chief Carnevale. "Another incident where tempers become short and people strike out. It points out the frustration we see every day."

Two Trucks Vandalized With Rocks on Boudinot

Two trucks owned by an Atco constructon company were damaged overnight last week while they were parked at the road resurfacing site on Boudinot Street.

Owner Raymond Shandock told police it appeared as if rocks had been thrown to break both windshields. A side view mirror and the driver's side door of one of the trucks was also damaged.

Township police said that a 1987 Mercedes Benz of a Princeton resident was damaged while it was parked Sunday afternoon in the Mt. Lakes lot off Mountain Avenue. The hood, left fender and both doors has been scratched with a sharp object, causing, the owner estimated, $800 in damages.

Earlier in the week, a garage door on Prospect Avenue was kicked in and a screen cut but nothing was reported taken. The house on the site was being worked on by a contractor at the time, police said.

A 15-by-5-foot grass area inside the fenced-in Broadmead Swim Club was burned Friday after someone threw a 'Molotov Cocktail' bottle over the eight-foot metal fence. Ten firemen and one fire truck responded to a 4:30 p.m. call and put out the fire.

No damage was reported. Lt. Anthony Gaylord reported that no one in the area saw anything.

Workman, 59, Is Injured; In Harrison Bridge Fall

A 59-year-old Morrisville, Pa. resident was injured Saturday morning when he fell some 15 feet from the Harrison Street Bridge construction and landed on a steel girder.

The victim, Charles Artegilier, was taken by ambulance to Princeton Medical Center where he was admitted with head and internal injuries. A hospital spokesman on Tuesday said Mr. Artegilier remained in intensive care in satisfactory condition.

Police were called at 8:41. The victim, police said, was apparently helping to direct a girder into place when he slipped from a plank and fell.

Bike Thieves Flushed By Two Alert Residents

An apparent would-be bicycle thief was flushed early Tuesday morning by two alert Olden Street residents.

Around 2:25, the residents saw a pickup truck drive slowly by and then stop. A passenger emerged and began looking over a bicycle in a yard. Thinking the suspect was about to steal the bike, the two residents ran out of the house and gave chase. Although the suspects escaped, the residents were able to provide police with information, a description and registration of the truck.

"Here is something very helpful to police," commented Chief Michael Carnevale. "It could be useful to police investigating this incident and incidents in the past."

In Borough traffic court Monday, Mark Compton, 180 Franklin Corner Road, Lawrenceville, was fined $365 and had his license revoked for six months for driving while intoxicated. He was also sentenced to two days in the Intoxicated Drivers Resource Center.

For refusing to submit to a breath test, Mr. Compton was fined another $365 and had his license revoked for an additional six months.

Karin L. Sullivan, 14 Marvin Street, Lawrenceville, was fined $70 for speeding, while Finau O. Kongaika, 41 Spring Street, paid $115, received a six months suspension for no liability insurance, and paid another $20 fine for overdue inspection.

In Borough court last week, Peter McMurray, 401B Kingston Terrace, was fined $1,115 for driving while intoxicated and had his license revoked for 10 years. In addition, he was sentenced to 180 days in jail, 90 of which are to be spent in community service.

Mr. McMurray was also fined $265 and had his license revoked for two years for refusing to take a breath test; $215 for having an open container of alcohol in his car; $765 for driving while his license was revoked; and $65 for leaving the scene of an accident.

Fined $70 each for speeding were William J. Buckley Jr., 35-12 Hunters Glen, Plainsboro, and Jose I. Dominguez, 45 Maple Street, Plainsboro.

Others: Sylvia Rosenauer, 17A Melborn Lane, Cranbury, $65, careless driving; Luigi DiMeglio, 168 Opossum Road, Skillman, $60, stop sign; and John A. McKoy, RD4, Princeton, $30 and $30 Violent Crime Compensation Board on each of three charges of trespassing.

Summer Water Supply Is Adequate According to Elizabethtown Company

Elizabethtown Water Company says it has adequate water supply to handle the water demands of the summer and it does not anticipate restrictions on water usage.

Elizabethtown Water Company's major source of water is the Raritan River, which is augmented by the Spruce Run and Round Valley reservoirs. Currently, both reservoirs are full. Reports from the New Jersey Water Supply Authority, from which Elizabethtown purchases its water, indicate that Elizabethtown will have an adequate water supply for the summer.

There is some confusion about why central New Jersey is in such excellent shape, while New York experiences a drought emergency. New York and parts of New Jersey are in the Delaware River Basin, which is augmented by reservoirs in the upper reaches of the Delaware River in New York State. Precipitation in these reservoir areas has been deficient for more than a year. In order to fill these reservoirs by June 1, an additional 15 to 16 inches of precipitation must fall.

Even though Elizabethtown's customers may use all the water they need to care for lawns and shrubs, and for recreational needs, it is important to note, however, that even when water supply is adequate, the efficient use of water is still essential. Here are some tips on using water wisely:

- Sprinkle lawns early and deeply. The best time for sprinkling is 5 or 6 a.m., and no later than 10.
- Fill swimming pools early to minimize stress to the water distribution system on the first hot day.
- Repair leaky plumbing. A slow faucet drip can waste up to 20 gallons of water every day and a running toilet can waste hundreds of gallons.
- Turn off the water until it's needed while brushing teeth, shaving and washing cars and dishes.

Folk Festival Planned At Rutgers University

Rutgers University will hold its 15th annual New Jersey Folk Festival Saturday from 11 to 5 on the grounds fronting the Eagleton Institute, off George Street and Clifton Avenue, New Brunswick.

The festival will celebrate the food, music, dancing and crafts of national groups. Among the performers will be McDermott's Handy, which performs traditional vocal and instrumental Irish music. Other performers include blues singer Frankie Lee, folk singer Shirley Keller, musician and singer Jim Albertson, the Irish Show, and the Hungarian Folk Dance Ensemble.

The Festival will also include a craft market and craft demonstrations, including duck decoy carving by Gary Giberson; a sheep-to-shawl demonstration by Pat Smith; quilting by Dorothy Gratton; and bobbin-lace making by Ethyl Skelton. Other artisans will demonstrate broom-making, Hungarian egg decorating, sculpting and woodcarving, herb and dried flower displaying and the rebuilding of antique engines.

Traditional Irish foods will be available, along with American hot dogs and french fries and foods from Italy, Sweden and Germany. The children's area will offer magic shows by Jon Marcus, clowns, crafts, music and games.

Festival sponsors include Rutgers' American Studies department, the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, the Middlesex County Cultural and Heritage Commission and the Voorhees Assembly Board. For information, call the American Studies department at (201) 932-9174.

The day's events coincide with Ag Field Day, the annual spring program of Rutgers' Cook College, located across College Pond from Douglass College. Animal shows, displays, athletic events and a barbecue are among the activities planned. Events begin at 9 a.m. at Cook College.

Three Day Symposium On Writer Primo Levi

Yom Ha-Shoah, "Holocaust Day," is the fifth of Iyar, which this year falls on May 2. From Friday to Tuesday, Princeton University is hosting a symposium "The Witness of Primo Levi."

Levi was an Italian Jew who survived Auschwitz. Despite being educated as a chemist, he returned to Italy and became a writer — one of Italy's major literary figures this century and among the most literary of the witnesses in any language. He killed himself two years ago in April.

A few months before the suicide, Pietro Frassica, Princeton associate professor of Romance languages and literatures and symposium director, met with Levi, with whom he corresponded for years. Prof. Frassica was on leave in Milan, where Levi, who lived in Turin, occasionally visited. Prof Frassica tried to persuade Levi, who had been to the United States only once briefly at the outset of his writing career, to come to Princeton as a visiting lecturer.

According to Prof. Frassica, Levi was on the verge of agreeing and proposed that the Princeton Professor come to Turin in June to discuss coming to Princeton. When Prof. Frassica returned from his leave in the fall of 1987, he began planning the symposium, bringing in that way Levi to Princeton.

The emphasis of the symposium will be on Levi the writer. Seven of the 12 participants are coming from Italy for the event. They include the scientist with whom Levi coauthored one book, his Italian publisher, and his American translator.

The symposium will begin Sunday, at 2:30 in McCosh Hall and continue Monday and Tuesday. For information on speakers, topics and times, call the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures at 452-4502.

no charge. They should mark their selections and return the pre-addressed ballots. New Jersey Bell then will notify the carriers.

Customers who do not choose a long distance company — after having had two opportunities to make a selection — will be allocated on a proportional basis to one of the companies participating in the allocation process.

After customers have chosen or have been allocated to a primary long distance company, they'll only have to dial "one" plus the area code and phone number to make a long distance call outside of the 609 area code using that carrier.

Customers also may use other long distance companies, but they'll have to dial a five-digit code plus the area code and phone number to use them. They may be required to establish an account with each additional company for billing purposes.

The affected Hopewell area customers who do not choose will receive notice of tentative allocation to a long distance carrier and will have until February 2, 1990, to choose a different carrier at no charge. Customers who select a company after August 6, 1989, and then change their minds, will be charged $5 per line.

PDS Names Scholarship For Longtime Volunteer

The Parents Association of Princeton Day School has decided to honor Margaret Cross, one of its most dedicated Outgrown Shop volunteers, by creating a scholarship in her honor. The Margaret Cross Scholarship will be awarded this year and thereafter to a financially deserving student in the upper school.

Mrs. Cross, an Elm Road resident, has been volunteering at the Outgrown Shop since 1965.

She recalls that, shortly after she moved to Princeton, a next-door neighbor who worked at the shop suggested that if she would like to meet people, she should come along to the shop. "I've been coming ever since and I've met a lot of my friends through the shop," said Mrs. Cross, whose daughter Jane entered PDS as a seventh grader in 1965, the year the school opened its doors on The Great Road. Jane is now a pediatrician in New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Cross and her husband, a retired physician who taught at the Robert Wood Johnson Medical School in New Brunswick, are the parents of five children. Mrs. Cross also has kept busy through the years working as a research assistant in the geology department of Princeton University. She retired from that job a year and a half ago.

The used clothing store behind Redding Plumbing on Nassau Street last year netted $50,000 for the PDS Scholarship Fund. Further information about the shop may be obtained by calling 924-5720.

SUSTAINED COMMITMENT: Margaret Cross, left, is congratulated by Sue Jacques, chairman of the Outgrown Shop, on the naming of a scholarship in her honor by the Princeton Day School Parents Association. Mrs. Cross, who has been working at the Outgrown Shop since 1965, when her youngest child was a seventh grader, has continued as a volunteer even though she has no children at the school. The shop is run by the Parents Association to raise funds for the school's scholarship fund.

US-USSR Project Editor Will Speak in Princeton

The first collection of contemporary fiction and poetry to be jointly edited and published in the United States and the Soviet Union will make its debut in Princeton with a presentation by Dr. Anthony Manousos, a Princeton native who teaches at Pepperdine University in Malibu, Cal.

Dr. Manousos is the American editor of the project, called The Hunion Experience, which is being published this April by Knopf in the United States and by Khudozhestvennaya Literatura in the Soviet Union. Included are works by such American writers as Joyce Carol Oates, Raymond Carver, Mary Gordon, Garrison Keillor, Adrienne Rich, John Sayles, Alice Walker, and Robert Penn Warren, along with Soviet writers such as Andrei Voznesensky, Yevgeny Yevtushenko, Valentin Rasputin, Bulat Okudzhava, Yunna Moritz, Tatyana Tolstaya, Georgy Semyonov, and Bella Akhmadulina.

On Monday and Tuesday a "literary summit conference" with authors from this book will take place in Washington, D.C., where there will be a formal presentation at the Library of Congress, among other events. Participants will include William Styron, Norman Cousins and Stanley Kunitz.

On Sunday, May 7, at 12:30 p.m., Dr. Manousos will speak about this project and current Soviet-American literary relations at the Princeton Friends Meetinghouse on Quaker Bridge Road. Dr. Manousos, a graduate of Princeton High School and Rutgers University, has been a frequent traveler to the Soviet Union during the past several years and has written articles about his experiences for various magazines, including Soviet Life. The public is welcome.

This project was sponsored by the Quaker US/USSR Committee, a nonprofit organization dedicated to fostering spiritual connections and better understanding between Soviets and Americans.

Health Fair Planned At Monroe Facility

Free health screenings and information will highlight the Health Fair sponsored by Princeton Medical Center at its Monroe facility on Sunday, May 7 from 1 to 4.

The Medical Center at Princeton/Monroe is located at 5 Centre Drive in Jamesburg across from the Forsgate Country Club. The facility offers outpatient physical and occupational therapy along with speech, language and hearing services to Monroe area residents.

At the Health Fair, screenings for blood pressure, dental health, vision and glaucoma, colo/rectal cancer, lung capacity and posture will be available. Information on breast cancer, cardiac health, weight control, and addictions treatment will be featured.

For more information, call the Department of Public Relations at 921-7700, extension 4424.

Authors' Nights Set By University Store

The book department of the Princeton University Store has scheduled a series of authors' appearances for Thursday evenings in May.

Peter Gay, author of Freud: A Life for Our Time, will be at the U-Store Thursday, May 4, at 7, when he will speak briefly about his book, sign books and meet informally with the public. Additional authors' appearance are set for Thursday, May 18 and May 25.

On May 18, the U-Store will hold its traditional spring Author's Party. The guests of honor will be James McPherson, Pulitzer Prize-winning author of Battle Cry of Freedom.

It's Time to Say "No" To Excessive Building

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following is a copy of a letter sent to Margen Penick, chairman of the Princeton Regional Planning Board.

Although you and your fellow members of the Planning Board have received written communications from the Steering Committee of the Northwest Princeton Residents Association and from our attorney, Chris Tarr, we should like to write to you as private residents of Pretty Brook Road, Princeton Township, concerning the proposed development of DKM Properties.

We are quite aware of the rights of property owners, and therefore, developers; we nevertheless feel that the time has come in Princeton to say no ... no to more million-dollar houses built on speculation, no to more traffic, no to overburdening the already-weak infrastructure of both Township and Borough, no to the continuing deterioration of road surfaces, no to the diminishing quality of what was once a self-sufficient community (and not a suburban, bedroom community), no to the greed that prompts a developer to treat an environmentally fragile piece of land with the same projections as would befit a fallow potato field and, finally, no to the idea that a unique area can be despoiled, forever changing the inimitable character of the land and its natural beauty.

We are also aware of the pressure-cooker nature of Princeton's location in the Bos-Wash megalopolis, and the enormous burden that this prime location puts on planners. However, there must come a point at which those of us who cherish what is left can have some voice in stopping the steady march of development. It is not a question of "not in my backyard" ... it is a question of trying to save some vestige of what makes Princeton so delightful still, not to mention a nod to those landowners in the past who cared for the land and tried to make it more beautiful at every turn.

I hope that some regard is shown for those of us who have invested a lifetime here, who pay taxes rather cheerfully, who are sensitive to the need to preserve the quality of life in our area, not only for ourselves but for those who come after us.

LILIAN and PETER GROSZ

Thanks to Many Efforts Choir Trip Was Success

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We would like to express our sincere appreciation to the parents, administration, faculty, student body of Princeton High School, and to the Princeton community for their support of our choral program at Princeton High School for the past 24 years.

Our trip to France was an outstanding success. The choir performed so well, both musically and personally. The families in Colmar not only opened their homes, but their hearts, to us. What a terrific cultural exchange!

Thank you for helping to make this experience possible.

WILLIAM R. TREGO,

University League Nursery School to Celebrate Its 40th Anniversary With a Party This Sunday

The University League Nursery School will celebrate its 40th year on Sunday. University League members, Princeton University administrators, current students, alumni and their families have been invited to visit the school at 171 Broadmead any time between 2 and 4 p.m.

The nursery school was the brain child of Phyllis Craig. As the wife of a Princeton University professor, the mother of four children, and a trained teacher of young children, Mrs. Craig saw the need for a nursery school for the children of Princeton faculty, particularly in the post-war baby boom year of 1948.

She proposed her nursery school idea to the University League, a civic organization which then was composed of wives of faculty and administrators. With the support of Mrs. Gerald Bentley, the University League president; Mrs. Harold Dodds, wife of the University president; and Mrs. J. Douglass Brown, wife of the Dean of the Faculty, the school became a reality. The University agreed to furnish funding and the building for the school; the League was the primary contributor to the scholarship needs of the students.

After a year of planning, the nursery school opened in October of 1949. Its first location was in Libbey House, a stone mansion on Bayard Lane owned by the University. Sumner Irish, a professor of civil engineering, was named equipment chairman and lent his talents to the problems of knocking out walls and converting heavy oak bookcases into cubbyholes for children's coats.

Early Years. With Mrs. Lyman Spitzer, whose husband was head of the Matterhorn Project, as president of the school, ULNS struggled through its early years in the elegant but old home. Mrs. Spitzer and her executive committee tackled such problems as the installation of a hot water system and the extermination of a long-term flea infestation. Parents paid $13 a month for tuition that first year.

In 1951, with the University's sale of Libbey House, the nursery school moved to former naval barracks adjacent to Palmer Stadium. Once again relying upon parental expertise, the new location was renovated and came to be known as "The Little Red School House," for its exterior decor.

Seymour Bogdonoff, a professor of aeronatical engineering, designed and installed a set of one-way windows which allowed visitors to observe the children without disruption. Dutch Schoch, the university's rowing team coach, designed and built a tree house on a raised platform in the yard of the school.

Economics professor William J. Baumol painted murals which adorned the walls of what school administrators called "the noisy room," described as a place where children could go "to express themselves audibly." Another economics professor, Klaus E. Knorr, laid tiles in mosaic patterns on the floors of several rooms.

In 1965, the University decided to take back the old barracks but it provided another new home: the former Princeton Country Day School building at 171 Broadmead.

'Work Hours.' As members of a cooperative, parents were required to contribute work hours, with the amount of the contribution determining the level of tuition paid. The division of labor between mothers and fathers reflected the times.

From the earliest years until the late '60s, mothers were always the helping parents, serving the snack, cleaning the classroom, coming in direct contact with the children. By definition, the fathers were the only ones completing "work hours." What mothers did in the classrooms was not defined as work.

To read through the history of the nursery school is also to see the influence of the women's movement. In the '70s, more mothers began to work outside the home. More mothers were also graduate students. Sex roles were being redefined in the nursery school classrooms too: Fathers could mix juice and wipe it up when it was spilled; mothers could sweep snow off the steps and paint the storage shed.

The children continued to explore a multitude of roles with the dress-up clothes, just as they had always done, and were happily oblivious.

Therefore, while the number of work hours contributed still determines the amount of tuition charged, the work hours can be completed by either parent. Some parents now opt for high tuition because both are employed and cannot contribute as many work hours.

Nursery School

Fathers serve just as frequently as mothers on helping parent days. Additionally, fewer employers object when the parent takes the morning off to be the helper in a child's class.

Changing Surroundings. Changes taking place in the lives of the families and their surroundings also were reflected in their nursery school experiences. Former director Margaret Turitzan recalled that when the school was on Washington Road, her young charges took nature walks along Lake Carnegie. "We also took field trips to the Walker-Gordon Farm in Plainsboro, when it was still a real farm, with cows being milked," she said.

While the children still take field trips, it's usually by car, and to more nearby locations like the University Chapel or the Princeton post office on Roszel Road. One of their longer treks is to the Perry Street fire station in Trenton where they can still marvel at a real brass pole down which firefighters slide.

SCISSOR SKILLS AT WORK: Five-year-old Emily Porter concentrates on cutting out an egg at the University League Nursery School. The school will be celebrating its 40th birthday with a party Sunday, from 2 to 4.

To produce income for the scholarship fund, University League Nursery School parents came up with a variety of fundraisers. During the years the school was next to the football stadium, the school provided babysitting services for parents attending the games. The babysitting service continued after the school moved to the Broadmead location, but was not utilized as fully since it was no longer right next to the stadium.

Therefore, the babysitting services were stopped in 1972 and replaced with a children's fair, held on Broadmead Field, across the street from the school. Other activities followed, such as sponsoring performances by Creative Theatre, hosting art auctions and selling tickets to puppet or magic shows.

Bakeless Bake Sales. Fundraising projects always seemed to include a bake sale. During the 1950s, parents sometimes held "bakeless" bake sales, where no food was prepared but the cost of baking items was donated. This year's parents abandoned bake sales entirely and using a professional fundraiser, who also happens to be a parent of a ULNS child, write a letter to parents asking for direct donations.

The nursery school still gives first preference in enrollment to children with a University affiliation, encompassing students, faculty, administrators or support staff. However, the school also draws students from Princeton and surrounding communities. Each year it enjoys a rich international blend. This year, for example, there are children of Swiss, Malaysian, Chinese, Japanese, Flemish, Italian, Argentinian, German, Columbian, Peruvian, Indian, British and Canadian parentage.

The children often lack command of the English language, but that doesn't seem to diminish the pleasure of play. The variety of cultures produces many unique experiences for the children. And the parents' annual spring dinner combines potluck with melting pot, to produce a feast.

Once Mrs. Craig saw her idea for a nursery school become reality, she continued to nurture it. She became the school's first director as well as a teacher at the school for 11 years. When her husband took a position at Stanford and they moved to California, the school appointed Mrs. Turitzan, a teacher at the school, as its next director.

Mrs. Turitzan, who still lives in Princeton, left the school in 1963 to teach kindergarteners in Lawrenceville. The school again turned to its own teaching staff to replace her, selecting Marian Maxwell to become director.

When Mrs. Maxwell moved to Texas in 1970, the school hired Carolyn Hills as its next director. After a two-year stint in the position, Mrs. Hills resigned but still lives in the area, and works as a realtor for a Princeton company. From 1972 to 1977, Shirley Fox was the director.

New Director Named. The current director, Mary Longman, equals Mrs. Craig in her long tenure at the school. But she too has now announced her retirement from the post she has held for 12 years. To honor her contributions to the growth of the school, and particularly her steadfast commitment to the needs of its children, the school's executive committee has established a Mary Longman Fund. Contributions to the fund will be applied where most needed, such as to playground improvements or special supplies.

Along with honoring past and present faculty at the birthday party, the school will also introduce its newly-hired director for the next school year, Pamela Betterton. Mrs. Betterton is a former parent at the school who served in numerous capacities while her children were enrolled, including the presidency of the school's executive committee, and also on its board of trustees. Additionally, she was a teacher at the school for several years.

The University League Nursery School looks forward to welcoming old and new friends to its very special birthday party April 30.

Trenton Woman Charged With CDS Possession

A 27-year-old Trenton resident, Norma E. Hernandez, was arrested Friday by Township police and charged with being in possession and under the influence of a controlled, dangerous substance.

Police believe the substance is a marijuana cigarette laced with PCP. It has been sent to a police lab for analysis. In Township court Monday, Hernandez's papers were sent to the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office to await action by a Mercer County Grand Jury.

Judge Virginia Long

Ptl. Sean Reed and a Princeton First Aid Squad ambulance responded to a 5:32 call from the Rusty Scupper Restaurant on Alexander Road, reporting a person unconscious inside. According to Lt. Anthony Gaylord, upon his arrival, Ptl. Reed observed a slim cigarette filled with a greenish-brown substance sticking out from a package of cigarettes in possession of the victim who had since regained consciousness.

After refusing medical treatment, Hernandez was taken to police headquarters where she was processed, charged and later released. Police said that she was alone in the restaurant.

Groundbreaking Is Held For Trap Rock Access

Trap Rock Industries, Inc., has broken ground for a new access road that will connect its Kingston Quarry operations with Route 27, north of the Village of Kingston.

Trap Rock Industries executives Stephen Osborne and George Conway joined Franklin Township Mayor Joseph Martino and several Kingston residents in a ground breaking ceremony that marked the start of construction activities for the 1.5-mile access road.

Trap Rock has been working on plans to expand its quarrying operations and to re-route quarry traffic from Laurel Avenue and the four corners section of Kingston. Last year the company received approval from Franklin Township for the construction of a private access road that will route quarry traffic to Route 27 where it intersects with proposed Route 522.

The company's plans, which have been approved, also call for the construction of a new administrative center, the realignment of a portion of County Route 603 to an area paralleling the D&R Canal and the development of recreational facilities along the canal.

Construction on the access road is expected to begin immediately. At the completion of all the road improvements, which will take about two years to finish, a cul-de-sac will be constructed on Laurel Avenue to assure that quarry truck traffic will not be able to use the public road to gain access to the quarry.

HIS BEST CRIME REPORT IN 33 YEARS: Chief Michael Carnevale says that the 29 percent decrease in major crimes, and a 47 percent drop in burglaries in 1988 compared to 1987 "is the most significant drop I've ever experienced in my 33-year career."

Crime Rate

community and police to strive to do even better.

In his report, Chief Carnevale wrote: "We believe the effort of the police department, interacting with the community, has played a significant role in a reduction in crime."

In addition to the drop in burglaries to 154 from 292 the year before, assaults were down 35 percent — to 59 from 91; thefts were down 18 percent — to 487 from 596, robberies were also down 18 percent — to nine from 11, and disorderly and drug offenses were off sharply, too — to 174 from 268, a 35 percent decrease. Only arson, where there were two cases compared to zero in 1987, showed an increase. There were no rapes reported in either 1988 or the previous year.

Overall, the number of major crimes fell to 895 from 1,257 for a 29 percent decrease. Request for police services was off five percent, to 8,293 from 8,730. Of those requests, 3,451 required written reports; 895 investigations of criminal and disorderly conduct resulted in 721 being classified as major crimes.

In the past two years, Chief Carnevale reported that his department has focused its efforts on reducing the rising number of burglaries and drug abuse problems — crimes, he said, that are often interrelated. He attributed the sharp drop in burglaries last year to crime prevention lectures, organizing crimewatch citizen groups, and establishing police anti-burglary units.

Extra Patrols Helped. When Council members authorized four citizen police dispatchers, it enabled the police department to put on the streets a full-time, two-man unit to patrol high crime areas. As Chief Carnevale noted, "We did not have to wait for crime patterns to develop; we were able to deploy extra men in the Stanworth area, a high crime area for burglaries."

Early on, on January 14, in temperature nine degrees above zero, the two-man unit apprehended two men burglarizing a Stanwurth apartment. One suspect had been arrested the previous month for another burglary in the Borough.

"Burglars did not expect police to conduct surveillance in such weather," Chief Carnevale said

In 1988, 353 adults and 81 juveniles were arrested for various crimes. The total value of stolen property was $530,054 compared to $480,955 in '87 and — as usual — only a fraction of the property was recovered: $137,515 worth.

There were a lot of parking violations (was there any doubt) in 1988 — 63,353 — some 7,000 more than the previous year. Moving violations were up, too, to 5,028 from 3,602.

Revenue Generators. Chief Carnevale has always been proud of the manner in which his department generates revenue for the Borough. The $1,361,851 figure for 1988 "reflects our best effort to date," he said

Included in the $1 million plus are $23,790 in criminal fines, $236,819 in moving fines and $521,353 in parking fines. Meter revenue (excluding fees collected in Park & Shop lots) brings in the largest sum: $557,511. All figures represent increases over 1987.

Drunk driving fines, and fees for meter bags, photos, prints and accident reports realized another $22,378. "Although the parking meter department does a great job of maintaining meters and collecting coins, without the effective enforcement of parking meter laws by the police department and parking meter enforcement officers, meter revenue would be reduced appreciably," wrote Chief Carnevale.

To get that meter revenue, incidentally, 40,147 tickets for overtime meter parking were written in 1988 — a decrease of 5,435 — but tickets for all-night parking were up to 8,252 from 5,061, while meter feeder violators numbered about the same: 482 in 1988, 453 the year before

Twice as Many Speeders. There were sharp rises in motor vehicle violations last year. The number of speeders doubled to 1,672 from 839, and twice as many drivers ran red lights, 344 vs. 177. One-way street violations tripled to 59 from 18 but there were only 20 more drunk drivers with 82 receiving DWI summonses Twenty-one drivers suspected of drunk driving refused to take a breath test, two fewer than the year before.

Figures on parking suggest that parking regulations are being flouted as never before. Those who parked on private property without permission doubled to 410 from 214; 414 drivers were ticketed for parking more than six inches from the curb, as compared to 167 the previous year; 190 parked within 10 feet of a fire hydrant — considerably more than the 77 who got caught in 1987 — and 263 (44 more) parked on the sidewalk. The biggest increase, a five-fold jump, were the 159 who parked illegally in a handicapped space. Only 28 drivers tried that in '87.

More Traffic Figures. There were 620 motor vehicle accidents in the Borough last year, 37 more than the previous one, but no fatal accidents in either year. Those 620 accidents resulted in injuries to 97 and the issuance of 394 summonses. Five pedestrians were injured.

The total number of juveniles processed last year was up 13 to 94. Forty-four were arrested and 42 arrested and later released with a warning. Juveniles were arrested most often for possession of alcoholic beverage (31), theft (15), possession of marijuana (12) and simple assaults and trespassing (10 each). Five were charged with strong arm robbery and three with aggravated assault.

The number of fires reported to police rose to 236 from 195 but there were only three general alarms, a decrease of two. Eighty-six of the fires reported were located in homes, 30 in commercial buildings and 12 in motor vehicles. Twenty-five were termed accidental, one suspicious and one arson.

Under more incidental statistics, there were no suicide deaths in the Borough last year compared to five in '87. Suicide attempts also dropped to two from six. One-hundred nine bikes were stolen, 18 of which were recovered. Dog bites almost tripled to 11 from four.

One last one: police issued snow removal summonses to 25 property owners last year — five times as many as the year before.

"As the activity of the Borough continues," wrote Chief Carnevale in the conclusion of his report forward, "we find that the department must cope with a greater number of competing interests which include matters that range from parking problems to disorderly neighborhood groups to more complex crime patterns...the duties of the patrol officers...are becoming more difficult every year."

He ended with this promise: "The police department will continue its effort to provide high quality, dedicated service to the community...the police and the community must continue to work together to make our community as safe an environment as possible."

Clean Care Chat
By: Rodney F. Mortillaro

CAT GOT YOUR CARPET?

Pets are great, but let's face it—sooner or later every pet has his "accident", and now your carpet has a problem. Within hours, germs and bacteria begin to grow, especially when a jute backing is involved. The problem compounds as the urine forms a gummy residue which attracts soil, while spreading unsanitary contamination.

If you can live with that, consider that a by-product of bacterial growth is ammonia (remember the baby-diaper pail?). Ammonia eventually results in permanent color loss. And if that weren't enough, the urine also creates substantial odor which begins in the carpet but, with time, spreads to the pad, subfloor, baseboard, walls, and air currents within your home. Contamination of upholstery and drapery fabrics soon follows. You may become accustomed to the odor; but when your guests begin making excuses to leave hastily (especially during periods of high humidity, when the odor is magnified), you know you have a problem!

The Best Solution

The best solution, short of the local animal shelter, is to contain the problem with immediate action. When fresh urine is discovered, your best alternative is to blot the excess with towels and cover the spot with salt—yes, common table or, for Southerners, ice cream salt. This has several desirable effects: first, salt absorbs the urine which remains after blotting. Second, salt is a preservative and greatly reduces bacterial growth along with odor. Third, salt is a color stabilizer, and it prevents discoloration of carpet yarns. Of course, when the salt dries, forming a crust, it can be broken up with a dull instrument and easily vacuumed out of the carpet.

Next, the contaminated area should be soaked with a detergent solution safe for fine fabrics, followed by blotting of the excess with a sponge. Finally, absorb the remaining moisture with paper towels and dry overnight with air circulation. With older urine and odor problems, a professional cleaner who uses enzyme disinfectants should be called for treatment. Otherwise, odor may be a recurring problem for years to come. ©LJB 1984

We believe that academic excellence later in life is largely due to an enthusiasm for learning inspired during the early years when a child's motivation is high and his/her chances for success are good. Students in our program in no way leave childhood behind for the sole purpose of intellectual growth. Rather, they celebrate the special gifts of their age: curiosity, flexibility, spontaneity, will, and wonder.

PRINCETON'S ROAD NETWORK, UPGRADED: "So much of the street system is physically substandard (in terms of widths and horizontal and vertical alignment)," writes Garmen Associates in the draft master plan, "some relatively modest physical improvements could reasonably increase the system's capacity without unduly impacting the character of the community." Proposed new road and extensions of existing roads are shown in heavy black lines. Existing and proposed traffic signals are shown in circles. The boxes around the circles indicate the need for turning lanes. The dashed heavy lines on Cherry Valley, Cherry Hill, Snowden, Province Line and Princeton Pike indicate a need for improved shoulders and geometry.

opment to community infrastructure) are repeated in various contexts.

The land use element "seeks to retain or enhance the distinct character and boundaries, diversity of land uses, natural and historic resources, and small-town image and human scale of the Princetons." Among the goals are the preservation of open space linkages, steep slopes, flood plains and remaining farmland. Mention is made throughout the plan of the need to preserve the scenic quality of Princeton's "gateways."

Focus on Institute. The Institute for Advanced Study's 500-plus acres come in for special mention in the 1989 plan. The acreage is currently developable at one dwelling unit per acre. The planners propose a concept analagous to a transfer of development rights by which the Institute would channel any future residential development in two areas west and south of Fuld Hall in exchange for preserving the woods and adjacent farmland.

The proposed land use map drawn up by Wallace Roberts & Todd shows a new residential conservation zone with a minimum lot size of 10 acres or more for this part of the Institute property, the adjacent Reed Sod Farm lands along Stony Brook, the White Farm Reserve and a parcel on the Millstone River off River Road owned by Bryce Thompson. It also shows the creation of a new high-density (less than ½-acre) residential "node" in the middle of the office-research zone on Bunn Drive, comprising the Campbell and Lowe properties

The purpose is to encourage moderate-income housing around Hilltop Park and Princeton Community Village. To balance the loss of office/research area, and because Bunn Drive is proposed to be extended to intersect with Route 92, the planners would return Mr. Thompson's Nassau Builder's lands, the subject of litigation, to office use and would eliminate the residential option throughout all properties zoned OR.

Since 1200 acres, or 63 percent, of the remaining vacant land in Princeton contain one or more of the elements the master plan wishes to respect — flood plain, steep slopes, significant vegetation, or important historical, cultural and visual resources — the Planning Board has identified areas on nine large undeveloped tracts in the Township that should be protected.

Residential cluster is mentioned throughout the proposed master plan as a technique to preserve sensitive areas in such properties, but the plan also acknowledges that this option has not been chosen by developers to date and adds that its use should be encouraged in the future. The plan targets nine properties for acquisition or preservation, ranging from 20 acres at the Textile Research Institute, 20 acres of Tusculum and the 52-acre Poe tract next to Woodfield to the 40-acre Rogers Wildlife Refuge.

Concern is expressed about Princeton University's plans for new science and technology buildings in its northeast quadrant which is bordered by a small-scale residential area. A change to an E-3 zone is proposed, with a lower floor-area ratio. The planners suggest that the University "should be encouraged to site future development further south towards Lake Carnegie, where adverse impacts on existing neighborhoods can be reduced."

A new educational zoning designation, E-4, is proposed for Princeton Day, Hun and Stuart schools, to regulate the permitted density of new development and to require buffers to protect adjacent residences.

zones are proposed, one to include Princeton Medical Center, and the other, CS-2, to include the YM-YWCA, Merwick and Dorothea House.

Commercial Areas. Turning to commercial land use, the Master Plan states a "primary objective is to stimulate the economic wellbeing of the two established commercial centers and the Princeton Shopping Center. At the same time it is important to balance the intensive land uses in the commercial and office research zones with the prevention of adverse effects on the community particularly with respect to traffic generation."

Warning that there will be pressure to tear down small buildings in the Central Business District and replace them with new, larger ones, the planners turn for guidance to a 1980 Princeton Urban Design Study prepared by the Venturi, Rauch and Scott Brown firm. The study suggests promoting the preservation of existing buildings, fostering appropriate qualities in new buildings, maintaining existing views and vistas and improving existing open space and pedestrian ways.

The planners suggest that a set of detailed urban design guidelines for the use of such elements as trees, paving, and lighting should be formulated and the Borough Land Use Code be re-examined. Expanding the historic overlay district to cover areas of Witherspoon, Chambers, Spring and Tulane streets not presently covered by ordinance is suggested.

A small park, similar to Tiger Park, is proposed in the vicinity of the Library. The plan endorses the Library expansion as a "major priority" but adds that "Library space needs must be balanced against the individual requirements of Borough and Township traffic and parking considerations and the objective of preserving the impression of open space and vistas that now characterize the area of the Borough in which the Public Library is now located."

Noting the need for an expanded Township police station, the plan suggests that the area next to the Valley Road building be considered for possible expansion of a centralized Township municipal complex. It also recommends that the two Township municipal garages be combined and relocated in a new facility on the Sewer Operating Committee land.

The 1989 proposed master plan supports "providing sufficient athletic fields and other active recreational facilities to meet the needs of an expanding population" but states that the SOC lands are not suitable for ball fields which require careful grading because it has been a landfill.

However, the plan states that Tusculum property should be considered for additional ball fields, and in recommending the Van Dyke-Wight site for a new elementary school suggests that additional adjacent acreage be purchased in order to meet the State requirement of siting schools on 40 acres and to permit additional playing fields. The plan also supports upgrading existing ball fields.

Finding that the Board of Education anticipates the need for two new schools, an elementary and a middle school "in the near future," the plan goes on to recommend that a portion of the Winant property east of Great Road be acquired as the site of a new middle school and multi-purpose community center. This facility could house an auditorium for use by community groups, meeting rooms and "perhaps a swimming pool and hockey rink."

Circulation. The circulation element states that a number of roadway improvements will be needed to maintain "a reasonable level of service on the Borough's and Township's streets, while retaining roadway size at a level that is within the scale and character of Princeton." The plan assumes a preference for keeping two-lane roads throughout the community rather than creating a few wider arteries.

Several new roads, or extensions of existing roads, are proposed: Province Line from Pretty Brook Road to Cherry Valley Road, including the restoration of the bridge between Rosedale and Pretty Brook; Bunn Drive to intersect with proposed Route 92; Road "A" from Mt. Lucas to an intersection with Terhune/Van Dyke; the access road from Olden Street to the parking lot behind Davidson's; the "spine" road through the Washington Oaks development linking Route 206 and Mercer; and the extension of Ferrand Drive in the Russell Estates to Rosedale Road.

Traffic signals will be required at Province Line/Rosedale; Province Line/Cherry Valley; Cherry Valley/The Great Road; Cherry Hill/Cherry Valley; Quaker/Princeton Pike; Lovers Lane/Mercer; Faculty/Harrison; Prospect/Riverside; Terhune/Harrison; Mt. Lucas/Ewing; and Ewing/Harrison. Turning lanes will also be required at most of these intersections.

Safety improvements will be needed along Cherry Valley Road, such as adequate shoulders, straightening of sharp curves, regrading of vertical curves and clearing of vegetation, but this road is proposed to continue as a two-lane "major collector." Other roadways designated as major collectors are The Great Road, Rosedale, Hodge, Mercer, Alexander, University Place, Washington Road, Harrison/Ewing, Faculty, Paul Robeson/Wiggins/Hamilton, River, Mountain, Witherspoon and Vandeventer.

A second Dinky station is proposed at the Faculty Road crossing where additional parking could be located in the hopes of reducing peak-hour traffic on Washington Road and Alexander Street. Six-foot sidewalks that are wide enough to serve as bikepaths are also recommended in all new developments.

The 1989 proposed master plan takes note of the earlier goal of preserving 25 percent of the land as open space, but takes that goal one step further in recommending that this percentage be public open space. Currently some of the open space is held in private ownership with agreements that allow public access.

The plan recommends that agreements covering use of the Institute Woods, the crew race finish line at the eastern end of Lake Carnegie and some 62 acres north of All Saints' Church be re-negotiated so that they continue "in perpetuity." In addition to municipal acquisition of the Poe tract and the deMenil tract for Woodfield Reservation, the plan recommends that a portion of the Winant property be acquired to create a linkage between the Mountain Lakes and the Pardee tracts.

There are hefty tax implications for the recommended acquisitions and road improvements in the 1989 Princeton Community Master Plan. Planning Board vice chair Hans Sander suggests that the expenditures be made the subject of a community-wide referendum.

"I see the community having to come to grips with whether it wants higher taxes to pay for services and open space or higher development everywhere." He says he knows of communities on Long Island, as well as in New Jersey, that have put questions like this to the voters in a referendum.

—Barbara L. Johnson

What Does the Master Plan Look Like?

The draft Princeton Community Master Plan is technically the revision of the 1980 Master Plan which is required to be updated every six years. A revised housing element to reflect Borough and Township affordable housing programs was added in 1988 along with a "reexamination" of the 1980 plan.

The 1989 plan reflects the views of a master plan subcommittee which has been working since 1986 on the revision. It also reflects the results of technical studies on land use and traffic commissioned by the Planning Board. Garmen Associates of Millville are the traffic consultants, Wallace Roberts & Todd of Philadelphia the land use experts.

The resulting document, more than 200 typewritten pages, contains background reports on the natural features of Princeton, its history, existing land use, demographics and employment characteristics; a listing of all the public parks and open space; a brief description of police, fire, hospital, library, schools and municipal administration; a summary of the evolution of the affordable housing program and the current housing stock in both municipalities; and a description of the major roads and traffic problems.

Following the background reports the master plan itself begins with a statement of objectives and gives separate treatment to the eight "elements" that are required under municipal land use law: land use, housing, circulation, utility service (an element that was not included in the 1980 plan), community facilities, open space and recreation, historic preservation and conservation.

The document concludes by describing this plan's relationship or compatibility with the master plans of surrounding communities and with the Mercer County Master Plan and the New Jersey State Development and Redevelopment Plan.

The Princeton resident interested in this community's past, present and future will find the draft master plan not only interesting but even absorbing. Loan copies are available at the Planning Board office and at the Public Library.

1989 Triangle Club Show Will Open This Friday

Where can you find a hunchbacked Fred Astaire, three testosterone fairies and the Phantom of the Hoopla?

In the Princeton Triangle Club's spring show, Satanic Nurses: A Comedy of Terrors. Each year the Triangle club presents a musical comedy revue written and performed entirely by Princeton University students and polished by professional direction and choreography. The show will open Thursday at 7:30 at McCarter Theatre and will play this weekend and Princeton University Reunions weekend in June.

The idea for the show begins in September as a glimmer in a dozen University students' eyes. After attending seminars with the likes of former Saturday Night Live writer Marilyn Miller, students begin to write the music and skits that will form the core of the show. In March the show is cast and rehearsals begin with director Scott Harris and choreographer Terry Rieser, both professionals from New York.

In the words of Triangle president Matt Kovac '90, "Nothing is sacred." Skits range from a vaudeville patter entitled "Buried Alive" to a "Satanic Nurse Ballet" featuring the Ayatollah himself.

The club will also present its all-new, all-male kickline, a vestige of the days when the Triangle Club was all male. Past kicklines have seen the likes of Jimmy Stewart '32, Jose Ferrer '34, and F. Scott Fitzgerald '17, who was purported to be "the prettiest girl in the chorus."

Performances are Thursday at 7:30, Friday and Saturday at 8, and Sunday at 8. Tickets are available at the McCarter box office, or by phone, at 683-8000.

Sondheim Musical Next At McCarter Theatre

The musical comedy A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum will conclude the 1988-89 drama season at McCarter Theatre.

With music and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim and book by Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbart, A Funny Thing will open Friday, May 12, and run through Sunday, May 28. Previews are Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 9 to 11. McCarter Artistic Director Nagle Jackson, who is directing the musical, will lecture on it Monday, May 8, at 8 in the theater.

Inspired by the Roman comedies of Plautus, A Funny Thing combines Roman comedy with American burlesque as it follows the madcap adventures of the slave Pseudolus as he attempts to win his freedom. McCarter publicity describes the musical as a "side-splitting farce chock full of curvy courtesans, rowdy Romans, and one of the fastest, funniest chase scenes ever devised."

A Funny Thing opened on Broadway in May, 1962 with a cast headed by Zero Mostel, Jack Gilford, John Carradine and Ron Holgate. The show ran for a total of 996 performances over a period of 28 months and garnered six Tony Awards in 1963, including Best Musical of the Year.

For information and tickets call the McCarter Theatre box office at 683-8000 Monday through Saturday between 9 and 6.

Performances Readied By Acting Students

Creative Theatre acting workshop students will present the results of a year's worth of work in original productions this weekend and next at the Arts Council.

Students in Theatre Workshop I, the class for 5th to 7th graders, will present their original version of Ellen Raskin's The Westing Game Friday and Saturday at 7:30. The story, a puzzle-piece mystery, has been turned into a script by the students, with Christina Jiminez, a 7th grader at Stuart Country Day School, writing most of the play, and Claudia Woloshin, a 7th-grader at John Witherspoon Middle School, serving as director for many scenes.

The cast also includes Kira Apse, Elysha Fiabane, Stephanie Hosea, Halla Kananack, Janet Leopold, Adam Levine, Chandler Plohn, Sammy Politziner, Andrea Prasow and Christy Strumpen-Darrie, all of Princeton; Jennifer Swanson, Erica Weickherdt of Princeton Junction, Eliza Hoover of Pennington; Rachel Fletcher of Belle Mead; and Rebekah Simon from Lambertville.

The class is taught by Jean Prall, Creative Theatre's education director, assisted by Kathi Sykes. The presentation is free and open to the public, but a reservation is required. Call Creative Theatre at 924-3489.

'A Tale of Two Cities.' Creative Theatre's acting class for junior and senior high school students, Theatre Workshop II, will present an original musical adaptation of Charles Dicken's A Tole of Two Cities, Saturday, May 6, at 7:30, and Sunday, May 7, at 3, at the Arts Council building.

The script and songs for this work were written by Rita Asch, using ideas and input from class improvisations. The production is directed by Pamela Hoffman, assisted by Jenna Pergament.

Participants include Polina Grinbaum, Beth Lipsky, Shelton Magee, Siddhartha Naithani, Sadie Ryan and Moggie Spear, all of Princeton, Rebecca Blackwell of Pennington, Sian Killingsworth of Cranbury, Michael Herschberg from Princeton Junction and Michelle Boyd of Highland Park. Each student will play a variety of roles, including French citizens, members of the French aristocracy and American students.

Modern Research Physics Represented in Dance

Geulah Abrahams' Danceworks will present "Dances for Physics Art" in a special preview performance Sunday at 8:30 at the Arts Council for Friends of Danceworks.

"Physics Art," an exhibit curated by the painter Pam Davis, involves physicists, artists, writers, musicians and dancers to produce an innovative art experience based on concepts of modern research physics. "Dances for Physics Art" illuminates these concepts through movement, creating an added dimension to the exhibit as well as a body of choreography which can be presented independently in concert.

"Dances for Physics Art" will be performed June 8 through 11 at the California Museum of Science and Industry in Los Angeles. The presentation Sunday is the first in a series of performances which are planned for the 1989-90 season on the east coast.

Those who would like to become friends of Danceworks and attend this performance and reception may call Catherine Coin at 924-4626.

Friends' donations range from $35 to $1,000, and include two tickets to the preview and reception. Donations may be mailed to Danceworks, Inc., 108 Clover Lane, Princeton 08540.

Musical Is Scheduled At New Hope Theater

The New Hope Production Company, Robert Pfeilsticker, executive producer, will present The Leader of the Pack as the first show of the 1989 season at the S.J. Gerenser Theatre, Bridge and Stockton Streets, New Hope, Pa.

The show is based on the life and times of songwriters Ellie Greenwich and Jeff Barry. Their music, along with Phil Spector's "wall of sound" made the 1960's one of the top eras in pop music, according to the producers. Leader of the Pack was performed off Broadway in 1984 and moved to Broadway the following year.

Previews begin this Wednesday, April 26, at 8 and continue through Sunday and again Wednesday, May 3. Opening night is Thursday, May 4. Preview tickets are $10.

Tickets for regular performances are $12 on Wednesday and Thursday; $13.50 on Friday and for Saturday and Sunday matinees, and $15 Saturday nights. Evening performances are all at 8, with matinees at 3.

Music of Bach Family To Be Featured May 7

The Friends of Music at Princeton will present the Baroque Soloists of New Jersey in a program entitled "A Bach Family Celebration" Sunday, May 7 at 3 in Richardson Auditorium in Alexander Hall. The Baroque Soloists will be joined by guest artist Sandra Miller, haroque flute.

The program will feature works by Johann Sebastian Bach and three of his sons, Wilhelm Friedemann, Carl Philipp Emanuel, and Johann Christian. It will open with works by J.S. Bach, including a transcription of an organ trio sonata for oboe d'amore, violin, and continuo; a sonata for flute and obbligato harpsichord; and three arias for soprano with obbligato oboe d'amore, violin and flute.

A duo for flute and violin by W.F. Bach will begin the second half, followed by a short keyboard piece by C.P.E. Bach and two works for soprano by J.C. Bach. The concert will close with J.C. Bach's quintet for flute, oboe, violin, 'cello, and obbligato harpsichord.

The ensemble consists of Martha Eilliot, soprano; Mary Hostetler Hoyt, baroque violin; Jane McKinley, baroque oboe and oboe d'amore; Alyssa Bava, baroque 'cello; and Webb Wiggins, harpsichord.

The public is invited to attend without charge.

Piano Recital Planned By University Student

The Friends of Music at Princeton will present pianist Curtis Doty in a recital of masterworks for piano on Saturday at 8 in Richardson Auditorium.

The program will include four mazurkas by Chopin, Schumann's Kreisleriana, and Liszt's Sonata in B Minor. Chopin wrote nearly 50 mazurkas, creating a genre from a rustic dance of his native Poland. Mr. Doty's selections will demonstrate the breadth of mood and color Chopin was able to derive from this simple dance.

Kreisleriana was composed by Schumann in a four-day burst of creative inspiration in 1838. It presents eight musical sketches of the fictional composer Johannes Kreisler, who appeared in the writings of the German critic E. T. A. Hoffman.

Correction

In a story about the 1989-90 drama season at McCarter Theatre in last week's TOWN TOPICS, an incorrect telephone number was given for subscription information. The correct number is 683-8000.

Sandra Miller

The second half of the program will feature Liszt's Sonata in B minor, a work of symphonic proportions designed to showcase not only the performer's musicianship, but his technical ability and physical stamina as well.

Gala Benefit Concert Set By N.J. Youth Symphony

The New Jersey Youth Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Conductor George M. Maull, will celebrate its 10th anniversary on Sunday, May 7, at 7 at a gala benefit concert in the State Theater, 17 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick.

The Summit-based youth orchestra was founded in 1979 by Summit parents, and received initial funding from the Junior Leagues of Summit and Elizabeth-Plainfield. The Youth Symphony has grown from one orchestra serving 75 area students in 1979 to three training orchestras that serve 250 musically talented students from 65 communities in 13 counties of New Jersey. All participating students receive chamber music and theory instruction as part of orchestra membership.

The Youth Symphony Orchestra made its Carnegie Hall debut last January. The 105-piece group performed masterworks by Rimsky-Korsakov and Ravel, receiving a standing ovation for the performance.

A highlight of the benefit concert will be the young pianist Christopher O'Riley playing the Rachmaninoff Piano Concert No. 2. Mr. O'Riley has taken top prizes in many competitions, including the Montreal International, the Leeds, the Busoni and the Van Cliburn. Emerson String Quartet To Give Concert Here

Princeton University Concerts will present the Emerson String Quartet, with guest clarinettist Charles Neidich, in a concert Thursday at 8 in Richardson Auditorium in Alexander Hall.

Christopher O'Riley

In a single decade, the Emerson Quartet has emerged as a prominent force in the chamber music world. It won the Naumburg Award for Chamber Music in 1978 and, since 1982, has been the resident quartet of the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center, and is also part of the Resident Associates Program of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

The quartet currently divides its concert season among the United States, Europe and the Far East. Its recednt recording of the complete string quartets of Bela Bartok was received with unusual critical acclaim.

The quartet — Eugene Drucker and Philip Setzer, violins; Lawrence Dutton, viola; and David Finckel, 'cello — was formed while its members were students at the Juilliard Shcool. The ensemble took the name Emerson during the 1976 American Bicentennial year in honor of the great philosopher Ralph Waldo Emerson. The members of the quartet have devoted themselves exclusively to chamber music.

To this day, the quartet continues its original practice of alternating first violinists during each of its concerts.

The program will feature Prokofiev's Quartet No. 1 in B Minor, Op. 50 and Haydn's Quartet in E-flat Major, Op. 33, No. 2 (The Joke). The Emerson quartet will be joined by Mr. Neidich in a performance of the Clarinet Quintet, Op. 115 of Johannes Brahms. Mr. Neidich was, in 1975, the first American to receive a Fulbright grant to visit the Soviet Union, where he studied clarinet with Boris Dikov. Currently a member of the Orpheus Chamber Ensemble and Aeolian Chamber Players, he serves on the faculty of the Eastman School of Music.

Tickets, priced between $10 and $16, are available at Richardson Auditorium box office, open between 4 and 6, Monday through Friday, and two hours prior to the concert. Call 452-5000 to charge tickets Visa and Mastercard. Student tickets are $6.

New Brunswick Concert By Atlanta Symphony

Yoel Levi will conduct the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra with pianist Horacio Gutierrez Wednesday, May 3, at 8 at the State Theatre in New Brunswick. The program will consist of the Beethoven Piano Concerto No. 4, Shostakovich Symphony No. 5, and Concertonte, a new work by Paulus.

Mr. Sopkin brought the orchestra to the threshold of professionalism before his retirement in 1966. His successor was Robert Shaw, who enhanced the group's national reputation with performances in New York City and at the Kennedy Center.

Among the highlights of this decade have been the orchestra's recent European debut tour, seven Grammy Awards for recordings, and national debuts on radio and television. The 1988-89 season introduces Mr. Levi as the third music director in the orchestra's history.

Born in Romania, he received a master of arts degree at the Tel Aviv Academy of Music. He served as resident conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra from 1980 to 1984, and received first prize in the 1987 Conductors International Competition in Besancon, France.

Tickets are $27.50, $22.50 and $15. For further information, call (201) 246-7469. Students and senior citizens are eligible for half-price tickets after 4 p.m. on the day of the concert.

Chamber Symphony Concludes a Season of "Stretching the Ears"

The 1988-89 season has ended for the Chamber Symphony of Princeton — a season that included a concert tour to the Middle East, the first of an annual Family Concert series, and evidence of a well-honed orchestral sound, as Director Mark Laycock finishes his second year as the ensemble's conductor. The last performance of the Chamber Symphony season, presented on Sunday afternoon in Richardson Auditorium, included music to complete the programming strategy begun in the fall to "stretch the ears" of the orchestra's audience.

Sunday's program started out conventionally with Mozart's Symphony No. 32 in G Major, K. 318. Not one to waste musical time, Mr. Laycock began this piece in a quick tempo. The playing of this overture-type orchestral piece displayed a nice rapport between conductor and ensemble, with dynamic changes well-executed. Unusual instrumentation by Mozart also created an interesting horn and oboe combination toward the end of the work.

Mr. Laycock's introductory remarks to the next piece, Anton Webern's Symphony, Opus 21, described the work as a 12-tone composition in a Romantic style. The introductions given by Mr. Laycock during this season to the more contemporary and avant gorde works on the program have helped encourage the audience to listen closely for the elements described in the music. In this piece, the 12-tone theme was presented first by the horns (although glitches in the horn section's performance marred the initial presentation of the row), and was then taken up by the violins.

Although Mr. Laycock claimed that this piece was harder to listen to than others of the same period performed by the Chamber Symphony, it was less angular and musically jagged than much of the 12-tone repertoire. The second movement contained more "thematic" material, with suggestions of jazz. The orchestra seemed more at ease with this type of music than it has in previous concerts, and the audience appeared to grasp the concept of the piece.

Unusual Instruments. To Mr. Laycock, "unusual programming" extends into choice of instrument as well as repertoire. The soprano saxophone is rarely heard in an orchestral setting. It is more likely to be relegated to a hazy jazz cafe or backroom improvisation session. But with characteristics similar to a clarinet, although with a more mellow resonance, this instrument offers a myriad of opportunities for colorful orchestration.

One artist who has taken advantage of these opportunities is New Jersey composer Ronald Thompson, whose Music for Soprano Saxophone and Strings received its first performance on this program. Featured as soloist was Marshall Taylor, a concert saxophone artist known for his interpretation of contemporary music. This short piece contained a great deal of sustained and smoky music, as well as an effectively played violin-saxophone duet.

Mr. Taylor continued as soloist in the next piece, the Second Sonatine for Soprano Saxophone ond Orchestra, Opus 194, by Charles Koechlin. This piece was originally composed as a Sonatine for orchestra and oboe d'amore, an instrument with a range similar to that of the soprano saxophone, but with a much reedier sound. Mr. Laycock termed this piece "thoughtful" music, with melodies that "begin, branch out and then take a twist." The flavor of the work was definitely French, with occasional oriental shadings. Especially nice coloring could be heard between the clarinet and saxophone, and saxophone and flute, as they crossed registers.

A new guest artist was introduced to Princeton audiences in the second half of the program. Pianist Theirry Huillet is young, but he has already achieved great artistry in his playing. Featured in Mozart's Piano Concerton No. 17 in G Major, K. 453, Mr. Huillet demonstrated that he is not merely a technician at the keyboard, but a musician with a truly sensitive artistic flair. At times the piano solo was played so quietly that one could sense the audience perking up its collective ears to listen closely. Mr. Laycock responded with a delicate and youthful orchestral accompaniment, particularly in the winds.

The second movement Andante shifted among several musical styles, well-portrayed by both orchestra and pianist. Again, the winds deserved special commendation for their superior playing.

Four Pianists. Mr. Laycock's choice for the final work on the program was an exercise in logistics, stage work, and musical traffic. The performance of Bach's Concerto for Four Pianos and Orchestra in A Minor brought together four pianists representing both the local and international communities. Mr. Huillet joined soloists Gaby Casadesus, Frank Taplin and Edward Cone to perform this work, originally composed for four harpsichords and based on a concerto by Antonio Vivaldi.

Prior to the start of the piece, Mr. Laycock invited the audience to move to the balcony, and life was definitely more interesting from this vantage point. Thematic material moved from keyboard to keyboard at such a pace that the music seemed to be going in circles. It is difficult to say which pianist had the more important part; as in much of Baroque music, all solo instruments were treated as equals. Throughout the piece, Mr. Laycock kept the action going, deftly avoiding a musical train wreck in the opening movement, when orchestra and soloists became separated.

During the course of this past season, Mr. Laycock has presented to Princeton audiences a variety of standard and contemporary music, with which he has developed a solid orchestral sound. The recent concert tour to the Middle East no doubt helped to build instrumental unity, with a positive relationship between conductor and ensemble.

The Chamber Symphony's programming for next year promises to be just as varied, with selections ranging from the standard Beethoven and Haydn to less often-performed works by Milhaud and Reger.

Kitchen Design Studio Featured at Allmilmo

"We've had our Somerville store, Fresh Impressions, 13 years, and we sold a lot of kitchens to customers from the Princeton area. There were no kitchen companies in Princeton proper, and we thought if we could sell so many in Somerville to Princeton people, imagine what we could do if we were here! So we looked for a location, and felt the Mercer Mall was right in the heart of things, and we couldn't miss!" Ted Haftel, co-owner with his daughter Linda Haftel, of Allmilmo, is enthusiastic about their new kitchen design studio in the Mercer Mall on Route 1.

Now celebrating its grand opening, Allmilmo seems to have struck a chord with people loooking into kitchen redesign In the three months Allmilmo has been open, the Haftels have seen a big interest in high quality custom-made West German cabinetry.

"European design has become a serious competitor to custom design in the U.S. in the last 10 years," she adds. "It has a sleek design, it can be contemporary without being high tech, and it can be traditional or country. The flavor of European design is updated, and Allmilmo is the top-of-the-line."

It also stresses practicality. Notes Mr. Haftel: "One of the most serious points Europeans make is the efficient use of space. The houses in Europe tend to be smaller, so people have to make the best use of their space. The average height of European cabinets is seven feet and eight feet; in the U.S., it is seven feet. They also make very effective and ingenious use of the interior space of the cabinets. Storage possibilities are very important. Step ladders fit under cabinets and ovens. There are special pull-out hidden pantry cabinets; shelves are adjustable. These are all very handy, space-saving techniques.

CUSTOM CABINETWORK: The latest look in kitchen design, as well as cabinets for all the rooms in the house, is available at Allmilmo, The Kitchen Design Studio, in the Mercer Mall. "Allmilmo is a West German company with 50 showrooms across the United States and one of the premier makers of custom cabinetry in the world," notes owners Ted and Linda Haftel.

"And," he adds, "these are high quality cabinets made to last. When people move in Europe, they take their cabinets with them."

Not Just for Kitchens. Although kitchen design is emphasized, Allmilmo offers custom cabinetry for the entire house, and the choices are extensive. "There are more than 100 different cabinet doors to choose from," says Mr. Haftel, "including laminate, lacquer, wood veneer, solid wood and every color, shade and style.

"In addition," he notes, "we handle everything for the kitchen - countertops, appliances, lighting and plumbing as well as the cabinets. We carry such major lines in appliances as Thermador, Jenn-Air, Sub-Zero, and we have commercial ranges, too. We also have the unique and unusual, such as AGA stoves. "We carry various types of European fixtures, as well as Avonite and Corian countertops, and 17 different granite styles."

Miss Haftel, a designer, who manages the store, is especially interested in the creative aspect of her work. "I love the versatility," she says. "Every job is different. Every day is filled with different people's needs. I really wake up to something I love. We're doing much more than just selling a product. We can put people's dreams together.

"For example," she continues, "they come in and find what they have been looking for as far as material, and then we can put the design together for them. We have helped fulfill their dream."

Personal Service. Personal attention and service are very important at Allmilmo, too, and she says that helping customers to find the right design for their needs is a big part of the job. "People usually come here to the showroom first in order to see what is available," she explains. "Next, I'll go to their home and see what they are intersted in having done — cabinets, countertops, appliances — whatever. I'll take measurements. After this, we'll give an estimate.

"Once we've established budget," she continues, "then we come back and do a design survey and draw up plans. The design survey tries to establish information on how the family works in the kitchen, how heavily it is used. What kind of cooking is done? Are the people right-handed or left-handed? What is their lifestyle? Are there children or pets?"

Mr. Haftel mentions that here are three stages to remodeling. "The design stage where the plans are drawn up, which takes about two weeks; the construction stage which is usually three months and finally, the installation, lasting from one week to a month depending on the size and complexity. When we are installing, we try hard to see that people are without the basic needs, such as refrigerator and stove, as short a time as possible.

Customers interested in a new look for their kitchen or bath will find a tremendous number of choices in the attractive showroom. Sample rooms are displayed in a variety of styles, one more appealing than the next. As Mr. Haftel says, "Every year the company introduces a new design, and they just get better and better. Just when you think they've outdone themselves, they bring out something new. They never fail to amaze!"

Prices for remodeling a complete kitchen start at $15,000 and go up to $50,000 depending on the scope of the job. An average cost is $25,000 to $30,000, including cabinets, countertops, appliances, wiring, plumbing, etc.

Bathrooms can start at $10,000 or $11,000 and go up to $20,000. Mr. Haftel also notes that "customers often come in for separate items, such as a sink or a vanity for the bathroom. Also, we sell cabinets uninstalled. If someone is handy, they can do it themselves. A set of cabinets would be $7,000 or $8,000. The type of door front on the cabinet, whether it's simple or elaborate, dictates the price. Whatever the style, they are all the same high quality, and they are all guaranteed for five years.

"I want to encourage people in this area to come and see what we have," he adds. "What's here is new and it's different. I think when people leave here they say, 'This is the most unusual line I've ever seen.' They haven't seen it elsewhere, and it is very exciting."

Allmilmo is open Monday through Saturday 10 to 6, and Thursday and Friday until 9.

Skin Care and Make-Up Highlight Impressions

"I like to have things that aren't found everywhere else," says Margaret Briggs, owner of Impressions, the cosmetic shop, which has just moved to 15 Witherspoon Street.

"We emphasize the Borghese line of cosmetics and skin care treatments," she continues. "No one else in Princeton carries it. I feel Borghese is a superior product, and if used carefully and regularly, it really helps the skin to look and feel better.

"We also have the Montecatini line of Borghese, as well as some Germaine Monteil, Academie — a new French product for skin treatment — and a Swiss line, Mavala, for nail polish and nail treatments."

A native of Illinois, and a licensed optician and registered nurse, Mrs. Briggs came to Princeton 30 years ago with her husband, and for the last 18 years she has owned Specs Unlimited on Nassau Street. Her involvement with Impressions came about some nine years ago when she purchased Dorothea's cosmetics shop, which was located next door to Specs Unlimited.

"I was always interested in make-up," she recalls, and "I enjoyed the chance to learn more about it. In 1982 we moved to Palmer Square, where we stayed for five years, and now we are looking forward to being here. I feel proud of the business. It has been a real family operation with my sisters. They have helped me from the beginning, and we all came up with the name 'Impressions.' My sister Patricia Powers did a lot of the interior design, and my sister Sarah McIntosh helps me in the shop."

A NEW LOOK: Impressions, the cosmetic and skin care shop, has a new home at 15 Witherspoon Street. "There is no other cosmetic or fragrance shop like ours in the area," notes owner Margaret Briggs. "We have a special line of products, and we are looking forward to welcoming both old and new customers to our new location."

Aside from the cosmetics and skin care treatments, Impressions also carries a variety of men's and women's fragrances. Mila Schon, Quartz, Fracas, Ombre Rose, Bal a Versailles, Zarolia and Mazim are among the scents, as well as Lys Bleu, Chanel and Galanos, among many others. Men's products specifically include Jean Marie Farina, Roger & Gallet's L'Homme and Le Patron. Mrs. Briggs remarks that a lot of male customers avail themselves of these products.

Gift Items. She also points out that Roger & Gallet soaps are in stock, and she adds that "We have a lot of gift items, including the beautiful French Rigaud candles, pretty decorative combs, also from France, and many other accessories, such as hair bows, barrettes and head bands. We also have lovely scarves from Paris.

"There is a nice selection of fashion jewelry, including many pieces with rhinestones," she comments. "Animal pins with rhinestones are very popular now.

"We also have a new line of gifts, the Takahashi ceramic picture frames, coasters, soap dishes, teapots, salt and pepper shakers, and mugs from Japan. They are in attractive colors and designs, and start at $8.

"Another special item for us," she adds, "is our selection of Lily Dache and Mr. John hats. With the veils, feathers and rhinestones, they are reminders of a more elegant era."

A visit to the new Impressions could very possibly result in a new you! Mrs. Briggs is glad to let customers know that the very popular make-up application sessions are still available. "These take about a half hour, and are handled by our trained cosmetician. We help people discover the most appropriate make-up for them, according to their skin type and coloring. We also teach customers how to apply the make-up.

"This has become a very popular gift," she adds, "and we offer gift certificates for it. Mother's Day is coming up, and this could be a special remembrance, something she might not get for herself."

Mrs. Briggs also notes that many long-standing customers come in regularly for the cosmetics and treatment products. "The Borghese line includes such treatments as mud masks, cleansers, day and night moisturizers, wrinkle cream, eye cream and body cream, as well as all the make-up, lipstick, eye shadow, blush, etc. There is also the new speical Borghese Hydro-minerali extra skin revitalizer, and Montecatini is coming out with another restorative product, Liquid Crystal Molecules.

"In addition," she remarks, "we also have a new product, 'Cover Leg Magic,' a waterproof leg make-up to cover veins or disguise any flaws. With warm weather on the way, this product will be popular."

Prices at Impressions cover a wide range. The make-up applications are $20, the super Borghese lipsticks, $14.50, and Montecatini eye cream, $26.

Eyebrown pencils and liners are $5 and blush brushes, $6. Barrettes are $5.50 and up (from plain tortoise shell to decorative rhinestone), and hair bows are in the $30 range.

Impressions is now open Monday to Saturday, 10 to 6, with additional hours to be announced

Stony Brook Water Watch Begun by Three Groups

The Princeton Stony Brook Water Watch — a community program developed by the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection to monitor and safeguard the ecological health of the State's streams, rivers, and lakes — has been formed by the Princeton High School Environmental Council, Princeton University Environmental Action, and the Princeton Regional Health Commission.

The program's goals are to locate and quantify local pollution inputs, maintain a consistent water quality sampling program, develop a water quality database for Stony Brook, and educate area residents to the current state of the stream and the impacts of human encroachments upon it.

The Water Watch Program meets every other Sunday at 2 p.m. in front of Princeton High School. Members then proceed to carry out chemical sampling, macroinvertebrate studies, cleanup activities, and special projects.

While public participation in these studies is welcomed, persons do not have to spend time in the field to help. Those who live on or near the stream, or who use and enjoy it, are encouraged to call the Health Department or the student organizations with comments, suggestions, or observations regarding the stream.

Persons interested in helping should call Dennis Boccippio, Princeton University Environmental Action, 734-7091; Margie Linden-Burns, Princeton High School Environmental Council, 683-4480; or David Widner, Princeton Regional Health Department, 497-7608.

Art Museum Re-Opening Inspires Day of Activities

The Princeton University Art Museum invites the community to Family Day, an open house on Sunday, May 7, from 1 to 4 p.m. Family Day, which celebrates the opening of the newly renovated and expanded museum, will be an opportunity for the community to explore the museum and its collections.

Family Day will include activities especially designed for both children and adults. Ice cream will be served outside in a tent adjacent to the building. Activities will include storytelling, music presentations, treasure hunts, demonstrations and prizes.

The event is being organized and staffed by the museum's Docent Association. Many of the docents will be dressed in period costumes lent for the occasion by McCarter Theatre. Other community groups and individuals who will contribute their time and talents include the Almadeus Quartet in the museum and the Shandygaff Longsword Dance Teams and Witherspoon Street Traveling Medicine Show outdoors.

Children will be invited to make paper mosaics surrounded and inspired by Ancient Roman mosaics in the museum, as well as listen to stories told by Gillett Griffin, curator of pre-Columbian Art, and professional storyteller Susan Danoff. Folktale Puppets will give hourly performances of Joponese Folk Tales in the museum's new Far Eastern Galleries.

There will be demonstrations of Chinese calligraphy by students and of musical instruments of different cultures by John Burkhalter. Artists Margaret Kennard Johnson, Charles McVicker, Lucy Graves-McVicker, and Betty Reed will give demonstrations in the media of collage, watercolor, and monoprinting. Films will be shown throughout the afternoon in 101 McCormick, an auditorium adjacent to the museum.

The event is free of charge. There will be a fee, however, for having a photographic portrait taken in 19th-century style. The museum shop will be open

Princeton Girls' Lacrosse Rolls On Toward NCAA Bid, Softball Stumbles; Men's Lacrosse Upsets Harvard, Baseball Split Leaves Penn in Command

SPORTS

The excitement surrounding several Princeton University teams reached a fever pitch last week, as the softball, baseball and men's and women's lacrosse teams all hosted crucial games. Pleasant, if not brilliant, weather and the importance of the contests combined to bring Tiger fans out in droves for the first time all spring.

The lacrosse squads, at least, rose to the occasion. The women, ranked fourth in the nation, upended No. 1 Penn State in a thrilling battle last Tuesday, 12-10, while the men claimed their first Ivy League victory in two seasons with an inspiring 12-6 upset of arch-rival Harvard Saturday.

For the women, who also bested league rivals Penn and Dartmouth in running their winning streak to eight games, the 3-0 week virtually guaranteed them a berth in next months NCAA tournament.

THE BEGINNING OF THE END: Princeton pitcher Dawn Roberts waits for the ball from catcher Debbie Hillenbrand as a Connecitcut runner steams home with the tying run on a passed ball. The action occurred in the sixth inning of the first game of Sunday's doubleheader. The Huskies won that one with three runs in the ninth, and took the nightcap, 7-3.

Out on the diamonds, the softball team swept Brown and Delaware and split at St. John's before dropping a Sunday twinbill to visiting Connecticut, the top-ranked team in the Northeast region. The Tigers, who entered the showdown on 1895 Field with the No. 2 ranking in the region, will have to rebound this week against highly-regarded Adelphi to get back into the race for one of the region's two NCAA tourney bids.

The baseball team, meanwhile, made a gallant effort to stay in the hunt for an EIBL title, sweeping Navy Monday and taking the opener of a Tuesday doubleheader from league-leading Penn. But the Quakers came from behind to win the nightcap, and after splitting a twinbill at Cornell over the weekend, the batsmen found themselves on the brink of elimination. Penn has clinched at least a tie for its second consecutive title, and can win the crown outright by gaining at least a split with its doubleheader at Navy this weekend.

Also included in the Tigers' 5-2 week was a wild non-conference victory over Bucknell.

In other athletic action, the women's tennis team bounced back from its first league loss to shut out Cornell and Syracuse over the weekend. The men's team also got back on track, blanking the Big Red, 6-0, on the road. Princeton's track teams had an easy time of it against host Georgetown, while the Ivy League champion golf team finished a disappointing sixth in its own Princeton Invitational, won by Temple.

The lightweight and women's crew teams continued their successful campaigns with comfortable victories over Penn and Yale, respectively. The lights won the Wood-Hammond Cup on the Schuylkill with a varsity clocking of 5:57.0, 10 seconds in front of Penn. The women captured the Eisenberg Cup with a 6:10.0 to 6:15.7 victory over the Elis at New Haven, Conn. The slumping Tiger heavyweights, however, suffered another lopsided setback, this time by 9.5 seconds to Harvard on Lake Carnegie.

Looking ahead to Saturday's races, the heavies will host Cornell, the lights will entertain Harvard and Yale in HYPs and the women will face Penn and Dartmouth in Philadelphia.

Sailer's Troops Win 3. The reliable combination of stingy defense and opportunistic, fast-breaking offense continues to fuel the success of the women's lacrosse team, now 12-1 overall and 4-1 in the Ivy League after another unbeaten week.

Coach Chris Sailer's troops rocked the lacrosse world eight days ago, erasing a one-goal deficit in the final nine minutes of play to knock off the top-ranked Nittany Lions before a vocal, sun-bathed crowd at Lourie-Love Field. Catherine McCarthy and Phyllis Fogarty led the Tiger attack with four goals apiece, McCarthy bagging the game-winner on a dazzling drive with just over five minutes left to play.

After such a momentous triumph, some kind of letdown was almost inevitable, and it was all the Tiger laxwomen could do to nip a fired-up Penn club two days later, 7-5. Under the lights and on the artificial turf of Franklin Field, the Quakers jumped out to a 4-2 first-half lead before Princeton's offense got untracked.

With the game tied at 5-5 and 10 minutes remaining on the clock, attack wing Kristen Mautner finally decided to take matters into her own hands, converting a rebound for the go-ahead goal, then sealing the win with another tally three minutes later.

Shaken up by the close call at Philadelphia, the laxwomen struggled in the first half Sunday against host Dartmouth, falling behind the sixth-ranked Green at the half, 6-5. Princeton regrouped in a hurry, though, shutting down the potent Dartmouth attack in the second half and turning on the juice offensively.

McCarthy, Fogarty and Mautner again led the charge, combining for 11 goals in the Tigers' 13-7 victory. Stalwart goaltender Demer Holleran recorded eight saves in limiting the Big Green to one tally in the final 25 minutes of play.

Princeton will visit 10th ranked Delaware Thursday before returning home for a matchup against Cornell at noon Saturday. If the laxwomen can beat the winless (in league) Big Red, they will finish the year with their best Ivy record ever.

Ivy Loss Streak Ends. Bill Tierney, the second-year coach of the men's lacrosse team, had reason to celebrate Saturday after posting his first Ivy League victory, 12-6 over Harvard. The victory, Princeton's first in the league since 1987, also broke a four-game losing streak for the laxmen and improved their record to 5-6 overall, 1-3 in the Ivies.

To do it, Princeton had to overcome an early 4-2 deficit. Goals from attackman Lorne Thomsen and middie John Kenny tied the score just before halftime, setting the stage for an amazing second-half eruption by the Tiger offense.

Attacker Chris McHugh almost singlehandedly broke the game open, firing in three goals in a one-minute, 17-second stretch of the third quarter to give Old Nassau a 9-5 advantage. On that day, McHugh had four goals and an assist, while rookie Mal Meistrell added a hat trick. Goalie and co-captain John Wright, meanwhile, made a whopping 18 saves as Princeton's full-field defense shut down the 14th-ranked Crimson's attack.

The laxmen will next take on perennial powerhouse Cornell, whom they have not beaten since 1987, Saturday afternoon in Ithaca, N.Y.

Softball Up and Down. To paraphrase Dickens, it was both the best and worst of times last week for the Tiger softball team. The six-time Ivy champions solidified their grip on the league lead by crushing Brown twice, then smoked Delaware before the magic ran out against St. John's and U Conn.

In the first game of Monday's twinbill against the hapless Bruins, Dawn Roberts tossed a one-hitter and the hosts scored seven runs in their first at-bat to coast to a 9-0 win. Co-captain Robbie Fazen then finished off the slaughter by firing a no-hitter in the closer, an 8-0 Tiger triumph. Lori Dickerson drove in two runs to pace the second-game attack.

The Blue Hens didn't present much more of a challenge the following day, as the Tiger staff recorded two more shutouts by the scores of 9-0 and 6-0. Roberts hurled another one-hitter to win the opener, while Christie Susko improved to 5-0 with a two-hit job in the second game. Co-captain Linda Smolka smacked a solo home run and knocked in two runs to pace an eight-hit attack in the finale at Newark, Del.

The Princetin hurlers' scoreless streak reached 41 innings two days later, as host St. John's succumbed in the curtain-raiser by a 1-0 margin. Roberts fanned 13 and allowed a paltry two hits, getting all the support she needed on an RBI single by Smolka.

The streak came to an abrupt end, though, in the nightcap. The Redmen touched Fazen for two runs in the second inning, which was enough to give them a 3-1 triumph, despite a sixth-inning homer by Smolka.

Their momentum slowed by the unexpected loss, the Tigers fell apart against the Huskies in Sunday's main event, losing the first game in nine innings, 5-3, and the second, 7-3. With Roberts (13-6) on the mound and a large crowd cheering them on, the Orange and Black bolted to a 2-0 lead on Michelle Moody's two-run double in the first inning.

But two unearned runs allowed Connecticut to tie it in the sixth, and the game went into extra innings. Two hits, a walk and an error (one of five on the day for Princeton) brought in the deciding runs in the top of the ninth. The Tigers threatened, but could only score once and left the bases loaded in their half of the ninth.

Powered by the slugging of Nina Rennhard, who homered and drove in two runs, U Conn banged out seven hits and dealt Fazen her second straight loss in the nightcap. Princeton had built a 3-1 lead after three innings, but the Huskies scored three in both the fourth and fifth frames to put it away.

Coach Cindy Cohen's squad visited Adelphi Tuesday for a make-or-break doubleheader against the Panthers. The softballers will next host Yale for a twinbill Thursday on 1895 Field, then entertain nearby rivals Trenton State and Rider on Saturday and Sunday, respectively.

Hoping to catch streaking Penn, Princeton's baseball team came up short against a mediocre Cornell nine on Saturday, splitting a double header, after squeaking by Bucknell in a non-league affair on Thursday.

In the contest against the Bison, the Tigers rebounded to claim a 9-8 decision, surviving a six-run Bison rally in the top of the ninth inning. Brad Remig drilled his fourth homer, stole two ases and drove in five runs to key a nine-hit attack.

The Princeton bats were still on fire two days later at Ithaca, as the visitors exploded for 15 hits in a 12-1 opening-game victory. Matt Noone again went the whole way, giving up just five hits. Jeff Barton smacked his eighth round-tripper and knocked in three runs, while co-captain Mike Lutz went 4-for-5 with two RBIs.

Cornell turned the tables on Gary Waslewsky in the nightcap, however, jumping out to a 7-3 lead after two innings. Princeton rallied to cut it to 8-7, but it wasn't enough, as the Red countered with three insurance runs in the sixth. Waslewski, the victim of Scott Kenney's two-run homer and five unearned runs, absorbed his second straight loss.

The second-place batsmen will host Monmouth today at 3 p.m. for a single game, then travel to Brown and Yale for weekend doubleheaders, trailing Penn by two games in the loss column but by eight in the "W" category.

HUN APPLIES SOME PRESSURE: Hun's Josh Hirsh (23) and Dale Beach (9) apply pressure on PDS goalie Steve Fulmer who is hidden on play. Panther's Steve Eaton looks on at right. Hun won, 6-4.

Hun Boys Climb to 8-0 With Two Lacrosse Wins

The Hun boys' lacrosse team matched the school's fine 8-0 start last year with two more victories last week, romping past Morristown Beard, 11-2, on Saturday, and defeating rival Princeton Day School, 6-4, in mid-week.

Hun coach Dave Faus said he hopes the Raiders can keep the string going by following their strategy of playing one game at a time. Ahead is a Wednesday contest at undefeated (4-0) Bayley Ellard and a game here Saturday morning at 10:30 against Newark Academy.

Also ahead this week is Monday's first round in the NJISAA Class A State prep tournament. Seedings were to be announced on Thursday, but Faus said that he expects Lawrenceville will be seeded number one and undefeated Montelair-Kimberly will "probably be seeded second" — both, he felt, on the basis of the stronger schedules that those schools play. Hun, with its 8-0 record, will vie with Blair, Pingry and Dwight Englewood for the third seed.

"The A Division looks to be a very tough division," commented Faus. "There is a lot of parity there this year."

A Pair of Hat Tricks. With three goals each from Geri Poblete and Scott Gordon (the two have combined for 30 goals), Hun had little trouble with Morristown-Beard. The game was only close in the first period, when the home team scored both its goals to trail, 4-2.

As for the contest with Princeton Day School, the outcome was a lot closer than Hun had expected. "I don't want to take anything away from PDS. They played a fine game, but we played awful," sighed Faus. "We were dropping balls left and right, even on open shots at the goal."

The Hun players were guilty of reading scores in the papers too much, said Faus. "They thought the ball was going to go in for them without working for it." The only positive thing about the game, felt Faus, was the revelation that Hun could play poorly and still win.

"I don't think the game was in danger," he added. "I always felt we had control. But they didn't roll over, and we sure couldn't put them away." Hun, he concluded, was glad to put that game behind it.

After an even first period in which both teams scored a goal, Hun appeared to take command, when it took a 4-1 lead at halftime. A goal by Gordon in which he took a pass, turned 180 degrees and rifled a shot in the net all in one motion was easily the outstanding offensive effort of the game.

But in the second half, it became apparent that the visiting Panthers, who entered the game 1-4, were unaware that they were not supposed to have a chance of winning. They matched Hun goal for goal in the third period and both teams failed to score in the final one.

Poblete had two goals for Hun and George Cole, Joe Tinervan, Paul Welykoridko and Gordon added single goals. B.J. Michaud had 13 saves in goal for Hun.

The Panthers received single goals from Lucas Altman, Jim Gray, Jeff Sawadsky and Hardy Royal.

Add in a lopsided 22-4 win over Pennington School at the start of the week and a 6-3 loss to Hamilton, and Hun finished the week with a fine 6-2 record.

Next for the Raiders is a game this Wednesday at Rutgers Prep and a contest Saturday with Princeton High School at the PHS field, starting at 11.

Hun Surprises Ewing; Murphy, Axelrod Star

It was cold and windy Saturday, but the Hun baseball team left the Ewing diamond with warm feelings: the Raiders had defeated a good Ewing team, 9-3, on the pitching of Pat Murphy and the all-round play of catcher Mike Axelrod.

the next morning with pains in the front part of his shoulder and went to a doctor. "We don't know how long he is going to be out, but hopefully it will only be for one or two games," said McQuade.

Any longer would be a crushing blow, he said. "If there is one player I can't afford to lose, it's Axelrod. I have no back-up; I'd probably have to convert someone."

Although small for a catcher, Axelrod is batting cleanup and hitting over .400 for the Raiders. Against Ewing, he threw out three runners trying to steal. "Every throw was right on the money," said McQuade. "He could have had a fourth, but one throw was a little late."

Axelrod also had a hit and drove in two of Hun's nine runs.

Just as impressive was Murphy, the other part of the Hun battery. In winning his fourth without a loss, Murphy struck out nine and was touched for only one earned run. He did not issue a single walk.

"Murphy has really taken charge. He's come of age. His fastball was the quickest I've seen, and his curve ball was also the sharpest I've seen," gushed McQuade. "He didn't walk a man — that's a first — and he threw only 88 pitches. He's really coming into his own."

Two batting stars for Hun were sophomore second baseman Tom Chiacchio, who batted 3-for-3, was on base four times and scored two runs, and junior Rick Uhr. Uhr had two hits, drove in a run and did a nice job, said McQuade.

Hun broke open a 3-3 game in the fifth. With two out, Alexrod blooped a two-run, wind-aided single to center, and Cecil Boone followed with another two-run single. Hun scored another run in the final inning. Ewing had taken a 3-2 lead in the fourth, when it plated two unearned runs on three Hun errors.

Hamilton Wins 4-Hitter. Earlier, Hun suffered its second loss when Hamilton's Matt Gachetti limited Hun to four hits, in posting a 6-3 win. Gachetti also struck out seven to run his record to 3-0.

Axelrod drove in two of Hun's runs with a double. Boone doubled and Chiacchio had Hun's other two hits. Starter Mike Shourds, who went 5⅔ innings, was charged with the loss.

Hamilton catcher Frank DeMarcello wielded a big bat for the victors, collecting three hits, scoring one run and driving in another. With the win, Hamilton improved to 6-0-1.

Hun began the week by erupting for one of its patented big innings against Pennington School, plating 10 runs in the fourth en route to a 22-4 laugher. Two games earlier, Hun had scored 22 runs in a 22-8 victory over Admiral Farragut.

McQuade commented that maybe later in the season, he'll wish that Hun had spread its scoring out more evenly, but for now he was not complaining. Carl Zentmayer picked up the easy win, as Hun pelted three Pennington pitchers for 17 hits. Zentmayer aided his own cause with three hits, including a pair of triples, driving in five runs. Five other Hun players — Boone,Chiacchio, Larry Foster, Mike Vogler and Matt Hyldahl — each rapped two hits.

PHS Girls Struggling; Now 3-5 in Lacrosse

Quickly now...When was the last time the Princeton High School girls' lacrosse team was 3-5 after eight games? Following its fourth straight loss last week, PHS finds itself in that unfamiliar position, needing to win four out of its last six to qualify for the State tournament.

Characteristically, PHS coach Joyce Jones does not look at it that way. "I look at it as six out of six," she said. "The wall is in front of us, and we have to break through the wall."

Ahead are games with Summit on Thursday at 4 at the Riverside School field and a rematch on Tuesday with Princeton Day School on the Panthers' home field. Starting time for that game is 3:45.

What is wrong with the Little Tigers, who lost 14-6 to Strath Haven on Saturday, and 11-6 to Princeton Day School and 16-8 to Montville earlier in the week?

"Our shooting is not there, our timing is off," replied Jones. And although the Little Tigers have given up 41 goals in those last three losses, Jones sees the Little Tigers' main problem as offensive rather than defensive.

"To score, you've got to reach the scoring area," explained Jones, "and then place your shot. Our opponents' checking has denied us the scoring area. We're not creating opportunities to get into the scoring area, and when we do get in we are not placing our shots."

Another question. When was the last time a player scored seven goals against PHS? Strath Haven's left winger, Jen Rinnander, outscored the entire PHS team Saturday when she netted seven goals against the visiting Little Tigers. Two other Panther players fashioned hat tricks, as Strath Haven soared to a 9-3 halftime lead at Wallingford, Pa., in the final meeting between the two schools.

Saskia Webber scored twice for PHS, and Cindy Stovall added a goal — the first for the veteran this season — and an assist. Also scoring for the first time for the losers were Tracy Tahaney, Jen Brassell and Amy Smith. Noting that the saves were about equal (six for PHS goalie Joan Sullivan and four for her counterpart), Jones cited that fact as further evidence that the opposition has been shooting more than Princeton and making its shots count.

PHS began the week with its loss to Montville, runner up to Moorestown last year in the State championship game. The Mustangs broke the game open with 10 second-half goals. Webber, Kristy Collins, Rebecca Savidge and Alisa MacNeille each scored two goals to account for all of the Princeton scoring.

In between was the one that hurt, an 11-6 loss to Princeton Day School, the first setback to the Panthers in four years. Collins scored twice for PHS, while Sarah Willard, Savidge, Brassell and Webber added single goals.

Details of the game are described elsewhere in this issue, but for PHS it was a costly loss. Collins and Brassell were each ejected from the game for illegal, dangerous stick checking, which falls under the banner of unsportsmanlike conduct. Ejection results in an automatic two-game suspension for each player.

———

In all, six players were handed cards for violations during the contest, which, said Jones, was an unusually high number. "It looked like the tone of the game was not set early enough. Things started happening in the second half."

She attributed the ejection of Collins and Brassell to the intensity level — every meeting between the two town rivals is intense — and frustration — the frustration of losing twice, back-to-back.

In addition, Jones revealed that MacNeille suffered torn ligaments in the game and may be lost for the rest of the season. "That is not the kind of news you like to hear. It's something else we have to face as a team, but we can't let these things box us in."

Do or Die Time at Hand For PHS Lacrosse Team

"We have to start winning. It's do or die now," observed Princeton High lacrosse coach Jim Harris, after his team dropped two more contests last week. The May 9 cutoff date for the State tournament is fast approaching.

In losing a tough, 4-3 overtime decision to Bridgewater East Friday and bowing to undefeated Johnson Regional, 10-4, two days earlier, the Little Tigers have slipped to 2-4.

Starting with this Wednesday's game against Lawrenceville School, PHS has five more games until the cutoff date, and it will have to win four of them to qualify for the States.

On Saturday, PHS will be at Summit, and on Tuesday it will host Hunterdon Central. This has been a down year for Summit, noted Harris, who added, "That definitely should be a win for us; I'm counting on it." He then said he was picking his squad to upset visiting — and favored — Lawrenceville this Wednesday. Starting time for that game is 3:45.

The Larries will enter the contest with a 6-1 record, having lost only to Montclair. Hunterdon Central has always been a thorn in the side for PHS, so the Little Tigers face an uphill struggle.

Trying to capture that elusive third win has proven frustrating for the Blue and White, never more so than in the overtime loss to Bridgewater. PHS fell behind, 2-0, at halftime, but cut the lead in half on Brett Hoebel's first goal of the season. Then, after the home team went up again, 3-1, PHS tied it in the closing minutes on Hoebel's third goal of the game, as the senior accounted for all of Princeton's scoring.

With 46 seconds left in the three-minute overtime, Bridgewater scored the game-winner.

"We made some mental errors, but it was a shame we lost it. I thought we were the better team," said Harris. "I was disappointed, the kids were disappointed. We played hard. We came in thinking we could win."

Sophomnre Tad Kinchla assisted on two of Hoebel's goals. Hoebel, who had been away and had been sick, "played well," said Harris.

Johnson Regional, which entered its contest with PHS ranked as the number two team in the State with a 6-0 record, made it 7-0 against the outgunned Little Tigers. The home team outshot PHS 23 to 10 and led 6-0 at halftime. "They were much better shooters than we were," observed Harris.

Jeff Hirsch scored twice for PHS and Kinchla and Mitch Jensen added single goals.

PHS Nine Slips to 0-6, After Three More Losses

The Princeton High baseball team is like a car without a motor; a vital part is missing.

That part is pitching. And the absence of a solid mound staff became more and more evident, as the Little Tigers dropped three more games last week to fall to 0-6.

"That's our problem," concurred PHS coach Larry Mansier. "We have two senior pitchers: one played in Babe Ruth and never pitched before; the second one is wild. We really do not have a stopper to come in when someone falters, and we've got to have that person."

Mansier said that he and his staff are working on trying to develop some pitchers. "We'll keep bringing up someone from the jayvees and look at a few freshmen," continued Mansier.

"Basically, it is a process of making a judgement of what we've got — and still win our share of games. You don't want to take that away; if you do, a team dies."

The fielding has held up, reported Mansier. The hitting, he admits, has been spotty but dynamic. (He translated that to say the team can hit the fastball but dies against the curve).

Said Mansier: "When we get someone on, we run the bases well. If we get ahead early, we seem to do well, but it's hard to get out in front.

"They still believe in themselves. They still believe they can win — if they get a little pitching," added Mansier. But time is fast running out on the Little Tigers this season.

In a flurry of games coming up, PHS will be at Hightstown on Thursday, at town rival Hun School for a Saturday morning contest at 11, host Trenton Monday at 3:45 at its home field behind the Valley Road School building and travel to Highland Park on Tuesday.

"Not a chippy in the bunch," observed Mansier. The Little Tigers' best chance to grab that first win would seem to be Hightstown, which has won only one of its first six starts. But Mansier quipped, "I don't trust any team that has a 1-5 record."

It was an interesting week for the Little Tigers. In a makeup game with Lawrence Saturday, the Little Tigers could not handle Cardinal pitcher Mark Polakowski. The senior had three good pitches, reported Mansier, and he used them all in striking out 11 Little Tigers and yielding just five hits.

Danny Page and sophomore Matt Baum each had two hits for PHS. Baum has taken over at third for starter Tom Shockley, who has been lost for the rest of the season with torn ligaments. Although Mansier described third base as "an open position" he added, "It's his (Baum's) for a while."

An interested spectator was Shockley, who was present to lend encouragement to his teammates.

Lawrence broke the game open early by chasing starter Chuck Long in the second inning with a five-run outburst. Junior Don DiDonato pitched the rest of the game for PHS and gave up only one run. "Not bad," said Mansier. "He might be the relief man we're looking for."

"Made Us Work." The previous day, visiting, unbeaten Hamilton figured to have an easy day against winless PHS, but by game's end, Hornet manager Marty Flynn commented, "They made us work hard for this win." Said Mansier, "I was impressed with the way we came back."

———

Trailing 10-4, PHS cut the margin to 10-7 when Tim Middleton tripled home three runs in the seventh. Hamilton added another run to make the final score 11-7. After Hamilton had taken a 2-0 lead off PHS hurler Luis Estrada, PHS went ahead 3-2 in the third with a three-run rally that was highlighted by Middleton's two-run double.

PHS added another run in the fourth to make it 4-2, but Estrada could not keep the Hornet hats in check. They regained the lead with three runs in the fifth and put the game seemingly away with five more runs in the sixth.

In going the distance, Estrada gave up 13 hits and walked seven. Joining Middleton with two hits each for PHS were Scott Petrone, DiDonato and rightfielder Jason Plaks. In all, the Little Tigers raked three Horner pitchers for 11 hits. The seven runs are the most they have scored in one game this season.

The Little Tiger bats were silent, however, against Hopewell Valley earlier in the week. Completely silent.

Hopewell's Tim Van Dyke (6-5) tossed a no-hitter for a 7-0 Bulldog win and just missed pitching a perfect game when he walked catcher Russ Levine in the third. Levine was Princeton's only base-runner.

Van Dyke fanned four. He later commented that while he felt he wasn't overpowering, he used a good curve ball and a "fastball that was really popping" to snuff out the visiting Tigers.

PHS Netmen 3-for-3 For Fine 8-1 Mark

The Princeton High tennis team defeated Hamilton, Hightstown and Peddie last week to increase its record to 8-1.

Ahead are contests with Trenton on Thursday and Nottingham on Monday. Both will be played at Princeton, starting at 3:45.

With their top player, Nick Leschly, sidelined with an illness and his replacement, Marc Glogoff losing his first singles match, there was a momentary scare Friday in the beginning of the Little Tigers' match with visiting Hamilton. Glogoff did go on to lose to the Hornets' Jeff Kuhen, 2-6, 5-7, but the day when a Hamilton team defeats a Princeton High team in tennis has not arrived. Not yet.

PHS swept the remaining four matches for a 4-1 victory.

In singles play, Dan Horowitz won 6-1, 6-0, and freshman George Khalaf breezed by Eric Weber, 6-1, 6-1. Both doubles pairs, Seth Socolow and Daman Ross, and Dave Williams and Matt Goida were easy, straight set winners.

Earlier, PHS handed Hightstown its first loss in five matches, but not without a struggle. PHS won all three singles matches for a 3-2 victory. Leschly triumphed, 6-1, 6-2, Glogoff won, 6-1, 6-2, and Horowitz prevailed over Erik Tavel, 7-6(7-4), 6-2.

Ross and Socolow lost in straight sets, and Goida and Williams lost the contest's only three-setter, 4-6, 6-3, 4-6.

The previous day, Peddie's chances of upsetting PHS were diminished when it had to go without its top player, Peter Yoares, who had been injured in a car accident the previous day and will miss the rest of the season.

Leschly, Glogoff and Horowitz all won in straight sets. Peddie's only point came at first doubles, where Matt Green and Greg Bunt defeated Socolow-Ross, 6-2, 6-2.

PHS Girls Capture Title At Highland Park Relays

Winning two events and finishing second in three others, the Princeton High girls' track team on Saturday won the annual Highland Park Relays title by five points over second-place Newark Science.

The PHS boys team captured one event and finished second in another to claim third place.

Julie Nelson, Annie Taylor, Lynn Davies and Mara Mather combined for PHS to win the 4x800 relay in 11:15.4 and Caty Willard, Jennifer Wolinetz, Nelson and Karin Swartz captured the distance medley in 13:56.6. The Little Tigers built up points by finishing second in the 4x400 relay, sprint medley, and shot put, third in the 4x100 relay and discus, fourth in the 4x200 and fifth in the long jump.

Seniors Ken Haag and Jason Harding won the pole vault with a combined effort of 20-6, and Doug Bolender, Ryan Bogle, Aaron Burt and Jaron Neas finished second in the distance medley with a clocking of 10:53.5. The Little Tigers also finished third in the 4x400 relay and the sprint medley, fourth in the 4x200 and 4x400 relays and fifth in the 4x800. Asbury Park and Rahway finished first and second in the boys' division.

In regular-season competition both teams kept their records perfect in a tri-meet last week with Hopewell Valley and Hightstown.

Dominating the running events, the PHS girls defeated Hopewell Valley, 91-30, and Hightstown, 76-46. Swartz won her specialties, the 1600 and 3200 runs, Willard the 800 and Wolinetz the 400. Kesti Ringland led PHS sweeps in both the 100 and 200 sprints. Wolinetz and Moore were second and third in the 100, while Nicole Klein and Rachel Kachur were 2-3 in the 200. Nelson finished second in three events: the long jump, high jump and intermediate hurdles.

The PHS boys ran their record to 6-0 with an 86-45 triumph over Hopewell and by edging Hightstown, 69-62.

Neas won the 1600 in 4:33.2 and the 3200 in 9:57. Dylan Penningroth won the 800 and Haag the vault.

However, the meet's big winner was the Rams' Randy Pinkett who won four events. Pinkett set a new school record by clearing 6-8 in the high jump and his leap of 22-2 in the long jump was almost four feet beyond the second-place finish. Pinkett was just as good in the races, too, capturing the 200 meter and 90 meter runs.

Marlatt Picked by Jets

Pat Marlatt, a defensive and offensive tackle on the 1983 Hun football team, was drafted Monday in the ninth round of the NFL football draft by the New York Jets as a defensive lineman.

After graduating from Hun in 1984, Marlatt continued his football career on a full scholarship at the University of West Virginia. He was captain of the '83 Hun team, the first one coached by Bill Quirk, now the school's athletic director. Marlatt is 6-7, 275 pounds — "a little bit bigger" than he was when he played for Hun, says Quirk with a smile.

Ficarro's Wins Opener In Mercer County Softball

The Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body women's softball team opened play in the Mercer County Women's League last week with a 12-2 victory over T.J. Entertainment. The game was halted after five innings under the 10-run rule.

Ficarro's pounded out 14 hits, led by newcomer Alison Aaron's perfect 3-for-3 performance. Grace Durland and Dee Vertucci were each 2-for-2, Doreen "Bip" Ragazzo was 2-for-3, Karen Sprague had a triple, and Mickey Yienger contriguted two RBI's. Clare Baxter was the winning pitcher, with Gail Johnson in relief.

Next for Ficarro's is a Thursday contest against Players at 8:30 p.m. at Mercer Park's Field 3.

PDS Tennis Loses First, 4-1 to Newark Academy

The Princeton Day boys' tennis team walked away from Newark Academy last Friday a 4-1 loser to the Minutemen, but coach Rome Campbell is already thinking about the next time these two meet.

It will be in the prep championships next month in individual player rather than team competition, and Campbell thinks his boys will be ready. Noting that two of the matches PDS lost could have gone either way, Campbell also commented that Newark, playing on its own courts, had an easier time contending with the gusty winds that blew constantly.

"I look forward to playing them again," Campbell said. "I think the outcome might be a little different."

This time, the only winner for the Panthers was David Ragsdale at third singles, who breezed to a 6-2, 6-0 triumph. Tom Galli at first singles suffered just as quick a defeat, winning only two games.

However, Scott Newhall at number two lost a long two-set match, 6-3, 7-5. He saved 12 match points in the second set, and might have won if it had gone to a third. Doug Adderley and Mike Moyer lost quickly at second doubles, 6-3, 6-2, but first doubles had another long match. David Suomi and Jason Hollander lost 6-4, 7-6 (7-5).

The loss was the first for the Blue and White after three victories. It will look to rebound this week against Peddie, Rutgers Prep and Dwight Englewood. Another big test will come next Monday against Lawrenceville.

PDS Boys' Lacrosse Splits With Pair of Area Rivals

The Princeton Day boys' lacrosse team met a pair of nearby opponents last week, and played well both times, although it had just a split to show for its efforts. PDS is now 2-5 on the season.

Last Wednesday, the Panthers met an undefeated Hun squad, and gave the Raiders a solid battle, before dropping a 6-4 decision. Friday afternoon, they rebounded to knock off Pennington, 13-4. The Blue and White should move closer to the .500 mark this week, when it meets Seton Hall at home Wednesday and Voorhees High School Saturday away.

Against Hun, Lucas Altman and Jim Gray kept PDS in contention with first half goals, as the Raiders took a 4-2 lead. Hardy Royal's tally early in the third pulled PDS to within one, but the home team tallied the next three. Jeff Zawadsky scored the final PDS goal. Steve Fulmer had 11 saves.

"This is an intense rivalry, and our kids came out with a lot of intensity and effort. Although we fell behind, we never gave up," coach Steve Czelusniak commented.

A Pennington team that just took up the sport a couple of years ago threw a scare into the Panthers early in their contest, taking a 2-1 lead with goals less than a minute apart in the first period. Princeton Day's defense stiffened at this point and did not allow the Raiders another score until the fourth period.

By that time PDS, led by Altman's six goals, had put the game away. Chris Lake added four, and Jon Trend, Ara Baronian and Zawadsky had one apiece. Fulmer had 13 saves, and Judd Henderson, who relieved him in the fourth period, had three.

PDS Girls' Lacrosse Rolls To Two More Triumphs

It lost its first two, but now the Princeton Day girls' lacrosse team is on a roll, a four-game win streak, to be exact.

The Panthers knocked off crosstown rival Princeton High, 11-6, last Wednesday, and followed that with a 7-6 squeaker over Germantown Academy on Friday. Now 4-2, the Panthers were scheduled to meet Peddie this past Tuesday, MKA on Wednesday, and Chatham High at home Friday. All games are important, because the seeding in the Prep Tournament will be determined by won and lost records.

"The defense is the key," asserted coach Kim Bedesem. Any time you hold a team to six goals in girls' lacrosse, you are doing well. Our confidence is starting to build now."

The attack is starting to build as well, led by junior Liz Bylin who exploded with seven goals in the two games, including the game-winner against Germantown with just 14 seconds left.

Against the Little Tigers, the teams traded goals early on with Maureen Cahill and Carrie Regan scoring for PDS. Jenny Myers, Alicia Collins and Bylin then scored the next three to break the 2-2 tie. Edith Roberts added another near the end of the half for a 6-3 lead.

Princeton High rallied in the second half to close the gap, but Meyers and Bylin each added two more, and Cahill notched her second to give the Blue and White its first victory over PHS in four years. Nikki Skvir had 13 saves for the winners.

The Germantown contest, played in Pennsylvania, was a tightly contested battle from start to finish, with no more than one or two goals separating the teams the whole way. It was a rough affair with the referees not calling several apparent fouls.

The score was tied 3-3 at the half, with Bylin, Myers and Jennifer Thurman scoring for PDS. In the second half, GA took a 4-3 lead, but a pair of goals by Bylin less than a minute apart lifted PDS ahead, 5-4. Germantown made it 5-5 with 8:30 to play; Myers sent PDS back into the lead, 6-5, at the 7:25 mark.

The home team's final thrust tied the score one more time with less than five minutes to play. As the final minute ticked off, PDS was in control of the ball. Bylin went for the cage, was checked illegally, and got a free shot from the center mark. Twice more as she attempted to get off a shot, the over-zealous Germantown players gave her head checks, and she got another chance. The third time her shot found the mark, and PDS had its fourth victory.

PDS Nine Loses 2 More; Still Looking for A Win

It's been a tough spring so far for the Princeton Day baseball team, which is still looking for its first win after five games.

Last week, the Panthers lost two more, routed by Lawrenceville, 19-2, on Friday, and Pennington Prep, 11-4, on Saturday. A couple of eight-run innings by opposing batters in each game hurt the Blue and White.

PDS has always been thin on pitching, and this year is no exception. Add to that the usual number of fielding errors and mental mistakes, and it is tough for coach Paul Brown's team to come out a winner.

It managed to hold the Larries scoreless for two innings, but losing pitcher Joel Totten triggered his own demise with a wild throw past first on a sacrifice hunt. That helped Lawrenceville to score four runs.

PDS came unglued in the sixth and seventh when six more errors led to 14 more Lawrenceville runs. The lone bright spot for the Panthers was a two-run sixth that managed to knock out starting pitcher Ranjit Khanolkar. Harvey Bradley and Ramsey Veshlage delivered run-scoring singles.

The next day against Rutgers Prep, Carlos Sagebien had no better luck on the mound, losing his third straight. Things started better for the Blue and White, and they took a 2-1 lead into the bottom of the fourth. However, another eight-run rally dashed all hopes of victory, and the Argonauts cruised to victory the rest of the way.

Sang Ji and Carlos Sagebien had two hits and an RBI apiece for PDS. Bradley and Rich Schragger drove in the other runs. Sagebien was relieved in the fifth by Ji, who pitched two innings, and Bradley also pitched.

In pursuit of its first win, PDS was scheduled to play a make-up game with Montclair-Kimberley this past Tuesday, and face Blair on Wednesday and Newark Academy on Friday. All three are home games.

Community Service Set To Remember Holocaust

Yom Ha-Shoah (Holocaust Remembrance Day) will be observed Sunday at a service at 3 p.m. at the Jewish Center, 435 Nassau Street. The service is co-sponsored by the Princeton Clergy Association and the Jewish Center, and will be conducted by area clergy. The guest speaker will be Dr. Ruth Westheimer, who will speak on her own experiences in World War II.

Rabbi Melvin J. Glazer, vice-president of The Clergy Association, remarked that "The Clergy Association tries to take note of national moments of remembrance which impact on the entire community, and that is why we sponsor the Community Thanksgiving Service and the Martin Luther King, Jr. service. We feel that the time is now ripe to commemorate the Shoah (Holocaust), and I am pleased that the community will be together at this service."

The public is invited.

New Librarian Named For Reading Room

Veona Finkelstein, has been appointed librarian of the Christian Science Reading Room by the board of trustees of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Bayard Lane.

Mrs. Finkelstein, a resident of Kendall Park, has been a member of the Princeton church for 25 years, serving as a Sunday School teacher, chairman of the membership committee and member of the board of trustees. She was the advertising representative in this area for The Christian Science Monitor for 18 years.

Established by the founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, as an integral part of branch church activities, reading rooms are found on main streets in cities and towns around the world. The Princeton Reading Room at 178 Nassau Street provides a quiet haven for anyone to come and read the Bible and Bible reference books and the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures."

It consists of two study rooms and a sales room and lending library where Christian Science books, pamphlets and magazines and audio and video cassettes are accessible to the public. Children's books and cassettes and the daily Christian Science Monitor can also be found here. Mrs. Finkelstein, with assistant librarian Doris Siebenmann and a staff of 20 volunteer attendants, keeps the Reading Room open six days and three evenings a week throughout the year.

Eight Lamas to Chant Tibetan Sacred Music

Eight Tibetan lamas and monks will give a performance of "Sacred Music — Sacred Dance," Saturday at 8 in McCosh Hall on the Princeton University campus.

The program, sponsored by Fellowship in Prayer, the Holistic Health Association of the Princeton Area, and the Department of Religion at Princeton University, will feature exotic costumes, Tantric Buddhist rituals, and a unique form of chanting which has been described as sounding as though "it comes from the womb of the earth, or from the depth of space."

The lamas are from Drepung Loseling Monastery, which, until it was destroyed in the Chinese take over of Tibet in the 1950's, was the largest monastery in the world, housing from 8,000 to 10,000 monastic holy men.

The tour, under the aegis of the Dalai Lama, is a nonprofit fund-raising effort to rebuild the Drepung Loseling Monastery in southern India.

Tickets for the performance, at $10 each, may be purchased in advance at Fellowship in Prayer, 291 Witherspoon Street, 924-6863, or at the Holistic Health Association, 360 Nassau Street, 924-8589. Tickets for the remaining seats will be available at the door.

It will be led by John M. Fife, pastor of the Southside Presbyterian Church in Tucson, Ariz. Mr. Fife's church was the first church to become part of the sanctuary movement, when the congregation opened its church building to Central Aemrican refugees who were illegally in the United States.

The seminar will explore the concept of sanctuary as it applies to the world of the late 20th century. Shelters for battered women and children, wilderness refuges for endangered wildlife, and nuclear-free zones may be examples of the need for places of sanctuary in the world.

The fee is $30 and includes lunch. To register, or for more information, call 497-7990.

Calling all those who are looking for a truly distinctive house with charm and style! Five beautiful acres, where wildlife is encouraged, create a pastoral setting for this large and unique Cape in Hopewell Township. The exterior is traditional with the roof and siding of natural cedar. The interior is a pleasant surprise as it has a contemporary flair: The foyer with its quarry tiled floor and diamond paned windows offers a complete picture of the stepdown living room, with brick wall fireplace, the dining room, both with beamed ceilings, and the huge deck beyond. The kitchen is modern and adjoins a spectacular family room. This delightful room with its walk-in fireplace and beamed cathedral ceiling is the heart of the house. The master bedroom with its dressing room and bath and a powder room complete the first floor. Upstairs — three bedrooms, hall bath and sitting area. The lower level is panelled and has many possibilities. A "must see" house.$550,000

Our salary is competitive with other part-time jobs in this area. We also offer two weeks paid vacation, Christmas bonus, sick days, parking, and participation in an excellent profit-sharing plan; and last, but not least, a friendly and informal environment.
